CAUGHT DRINKING, THREE POLICEMEN FIRED OFF FORCE

Three Officers Are Suspended for Ninety Days, and Two Exonerated and Their Pay for Lost Time Restored.

WOOD, BORN, FOLDS DISCHARGED BY BOARD

Mayor Intimated He Would Ask Charges Be Preferred Against Moon, Who Said He Drank to Secure Evidence.

The scandal in the police department which grew out of revelations that eight policemen visited the resort of Ola Bradley, a negress, at No. 129 Auburn street, resulted in the dismissal of three, exoneration of two, and suspension of three for ninety days, by the police board, at 1:30 o'clock this morning.

The policemen discharged were Robert A. Wood, J. P. Born and E. C. Folds.

Patrolmen J. E. McDaniels and L. W. Evans, who were under charges for neglect of duty for failure to report the visits of their partners to the resort, were found not guilty and were restored to the ranks with pay for lost time during suspension.

Three Are Suspended.

The three who were suspended were Patrolmen R. T. David, J. J. Jackson and Roundsman Bailey.

Mayor James G. Woodward vigorously opposed the dismissal or suspension of any of the accused officers. "You can't believe a nigger against a white man, and that is just what this board will do if they find them guilty," he said.

A majority of the board were agreed that the testimony of the Cutwright woman, a young negress, was correct.

Mayor Woodward strongly intimated that he would demand that Chief Beavers bring charges before the board against Plainclothes Officer Moon, who admitted that he drank whisky in the Bradley house to get evidence against the women.

"I have not decided what I will do with Moon," Chief Beavers declared. "He was ordered by his superior officer to make an investigation and get the evidence. It looks to me like he was carrying out instructions."

Able Counsel Present.

The accused men were ably represented by Hon. J. Y. Smith, Colonel Harvey Hill, Aldine Chambers, William R. Smith and others.

The trials were, perhaps, the most sensational and salicious that have ever demanded the attention of the police department. Patrolmen Born, Folds, Wood, David, Jackson and Roundsman Bailey were charged with visiting the house—specifically that they drank whisky with the inmates on June 24. Evans and McDaniel were charged with failing to report the visits of their partners to the chief.

The chief witnesses against the accused officers were Plainclothes Officers Moon and Adams.

Patrolman I. E. Jackson, charged by Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Smith with abusive treatment in the Bijou theater June 24, was exonerated.

Many Visits to House.

H. T. Adams, patrolman doing duty as a member of Chief Beavers' "vice squad," who exposed the alleged police rendezvous at the house of Ola Bradley, No. 127 Auburn avenue, told the board of seeing many men and woman go into the Bradley house. Adams said he saw a negro woman pour whisky out of a jar for a white man who offered to pay for it.

"On the night of the 27th," Adams testified, "we saw Sergeant Bailey and Patrolman Wood in the house. A negro woman poured whisky out of a

Cheered by thousands of Atlantans along a farewell parade through the down-town section, the boys of the Fifth regiment of the National Guard of Georgia left the union station in two trains over the Atlanta, Birmingham and Atlantic railroad promptly at 8 and 8:30 o'clock, respectively, last night for the encampment at St. Simons island, which will be in progress for ten days.

The members of the regiment were in the highest spirits and marched with lively step to the martial airs of the band which led the way.

From the armory the regiment, in command of Colonel E. E. Pomeroy, marched up Edgewood avenue to Pryor, up Pryor to Houston to Peachtree, down Peachtree and Whitehall to Mitchell, thence down Pryor street to the depot. The scene at the station was one of great activity, but the entrainment and department was accomplished with military dispatch and precision.

The regiment will arrive at Brunswick early Wednesday morning. The men occupied the day coaches, while the officers were provided with a Pullman. For breakfast, coffee and sandwiches will be served immediately upon arrival at Brunswick, and the regiment will then directly enter special boats for the trip across the sea to St. Simons Camp will be pitched and the boys will be enjoying the surf in the early afternoon.

All day long Tuesday the big task of loading the baggage of the regiment was in progress. The various details worked hard under the direction of Regimental Quartermaster S. P. Cronheim, and before nightfall every one of the twelve companies had their baggage at the depot ready to go. Captain F. H. Lichtenwalter, regimental commissary, went in advance of the regiment to buy the supplies and make other arrangements incidental to feeding 600 men three times a day for ten days.

SOME ELKS CLUBS DISGRACE TO ORDER

So Retiring Ruler Mills Alleges—Illegal Sale of Liquor Is Charged—Leach Chosen Exalted Ruler.

Rochester, N. Y., July 8.—Grand Treasurer Edward Leach, of New York, today was elected grand exalted ruler of the Benevolent Protective Order of Elks to succeed Thomas B. Mills, of Superior, Wis. Mr. Leach was opposed by J. Cookman Boyd, of Baltimore. The vote was Leach 1,119; Boyd 352. Grand Secretary Fred C. Robinson, of Grand Duke, Iowa, was re-elected in a three-cornered fight.

The election was the feature of the day's sessions of the Grand Lodge. At the conclusion adjournment was taken until tomorrow when the report of the committee appointed to consider the advisibility of erecting a new national home at Bedford, Va., was made a special order of business.

Other officers chosen today are:

Grand esteemed knight, P. H. Shields, Clarksburg, W. Va.; grand esteemed knight, H. H. Jennings, Bridgeport, Conn.; grand esteemed lecturing knight, E. M. Dickerman, Tucson, Ariz.; grand inner guard, Edwin J. Kelley, Cheyenne, Wyo.; grand trustee for five years, S. V. Perott, Indianapolis; grand trustee for two years to fill vacancy caused by death of Mayor Charles C. Schmidt, of Wheeling, W. Va., James R. Nicholson, Springfield, Mass.

Judge John J. Mitchell, of St. Paul, Minn., was appointed to the grand forum by Grand Exalted Ruler Mills to succeed Perry A. Shanor, of Statesville, Pa.

A grand treasurer was not elected. A second ballot will be cast tomorrow morning. Charles A. White, of Chicago, led a four-cornered race on the ballot, his opponents being George D. Locke, of Rogers, Ark.; P. J. Brennan, of Denison, Texas, and William D. Evans, of St. Joseph, Mo. White lacked 156 votes of election, 714 being necessary.

Atlanta withdrew from the race for the 1914 convention before the grand lodge went into session and the delegates were unanimous for Denver.

Earlier in the day the grand officers made their annual reports. Grand Exalted Ruler Thomas B. Mills devoted part of his report to the conduct of Elks' clubs, saying:

"The manner in which the clubs connected with some of the subordinate lodges are conducted is a disgrace to the order and in many places a public scandal. Liquor is sold either in open violation of the laws of the land or some miserable subterfuge is resorted to in evasion of those laws, thereby trampling under foot the obligation and statutes of the order. While it is true that these crimes can be charged to but a very small percentage of the memberships, where indulged in, the fact remains that the outside world pillories each and every member of the lodge and blames the innocent with the guilty."

JAMES M. LYNCH NAMED BY GOVERNOR SULZER

Albany, N. Y., July 8.—After having been unsuccessful in three attempts to have John Mitchell, former president of the United Mine Workers of America, made state labor commissioner, Governor Sulzer tonight sent to the senate for confirmation the appointment of James M. Lynch, of Syracuse, president of the International Typographical union, for the position.

Mr. Lynch is now completing his seventh two-year term as president of the typographical union.

MRS. J. J. LEE AND HER SON, J. J. LEE, JR.

MRS. J. J. LEE GIVES STATEMENT ABOUT INTERVIEW WITH BEAVERS

At the trial of Mrs. J. J. Lee in police court Tuesday afternoon she was cross-questioned by Chief of Police Beavers, the purport of his questions being apparently to discredit a statement in The Constitution of Tuesday morning. This statement was to the effect that Chief Beavers had said to Mrs. Lee that a slanderer of a woman's character deserved to have his face slapped. During the cross-questioning Mrs. Lee was manifestly nervous, and when asked pointblank if she had made this statement to a Constitution reporter she denied that she had.

In order to set the matter right and to ascertain just exactly what conversation transpired between Chief Beavers and Mrs. Lee the same reporter called on her Tuesday afternoon, after the trial was over. She voluntarily wrote the following communication to The Constitution in the presence of her son, who was with her when the original statement was made:

"Editor Constitution: Mr. Beavers said that if it was his relative who a man was slandering he would feel like slapping his face or horsewhipping him, but that he would do neither—he would let the courts settle it, sue for libel.

"I was nervous and excited at what Thompson was saying about me and decided I would horsewhip Thompson.

"I think when you feel like doing anything you should go as your conscience guides you. I feel sure and felt like Mr. Beavers thought that was the right thing to do. I asked him what would it cost me if I did such a thing (meaning the horsewhipping) and he gave me no answer.

"The reporter asked me if Mr. Beavers told me to horsewhip him (meaning Thompson). I told him (the reporter) that he said he (Beavers) would feel like doing both.

(Signed)

"MRS. J. J. LEE."

"I have no sympathy with the unwritten law. I don't believe in it. We have the courts for protection. They uphold the law and defend justice. Persons must not take the law in their own hands."

This denunciation of the unwritten law was made by Police Judge Nash R. Broyles yesterday afternoon as he concluded the trial of Mrs. J. J. Lee, the pretty Peachtree street resident who avenged alleged attacks on her character in a sensational horse-whipping of T. D. Thompson Monday evening.

Mrs. Lee's attorney pleaded the unwritten law. Declaring that the woman had no one physically strong enough to defend her she was forced to deal punishment by herself. There was no law, he argued, which pertained to scandal of the nature his client charges to the man the attacked.

Admitted the Whipping.

Mrs. Lee frankly admitted the whipping. She had gone to Forsyth and Nelson streets, she told, for the express purpose of lying in wait for Thompson as he left work for his home at 140 Washington street. She insisted that her act was justifiable, and intimated that she should have

BARROW COUNTY GAINS SUPPORT OF COMMITTEE

General Assembly Will Be Asked to Take Favorable Action Upon Petition at This Session.

TWO OTHER COUNTIES HELD UP FOR PRESENT

The Decision Is Postponed in These Cases as Result of Request of Delegates From Tattnall County.

The committee appointed at the beginning of this session of the legislature to consider the applications of new counties Tuesday afternoon heard the arguments for and against the creation of the counties of Barrow, Stonewall and Candler counties, reaching a decision to recommend the creation of Barrow county, and withholding decision in the cases of the other two counties until the next meeting of the committee, which will be next Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

The new county of Barrow, the creation of which will be recommended to the house, will be formed of parts of Jackson, Gwinnett and Walton counties.

Decision Is Withheld.

Decision in the cases of Candler and Stonewall counties was withheld upon request of delegates from Tattnall county, because of the fact that both these counties contemplated cutting a portion of Tattnall county, and there was a movement proposed now—Hampton and Evans—which also contemplate taking in parts of Tattnall. The delegation asked that the committee withhold its decision until the hearings upon Hampton and Evans counties.

Candler and Stonewall embrace practically the same territory, cutting into Tattnall, Emanuel and Bulloch counties, the main contention being as to the location of the county seat. Candler county stands out for a new county, of which Metter shall be the county seat, while the promoters of Stonewall want Stillmore as the county seat.

The fight before the committee, which met at 8 o'clock in the house chamber, was the hottest that has come up in either the house or the senate or any committee of te present legislature.

Big Crowd Present.

The floor and the galleries were crowded with delegations from the various counties interested and by spectators until standing room was at a premium, and it was with the greatest difficulty that the chairman was able to keep order. The walls of the northeastern corner of the house chamber were ablaze with charts, maps and banners designed to elucidate the points in question in the case of each county and to arouse the enthusiasm of those present.

Many delegations came from the different counties interested, both for and against the creation of the new counties. Gwinett, Walton and Jackson counties sent a delegation of 125 protesting against the creation of Barrow county

The argument before the committee was fought throughout with high feeling and there was repeated applause as point after point was made or defeated. At times the feeling of the speaker rose to the point of bitterness.

Sentiment Against New Counties.

An interesting aspect brought out by the tenor of several arguments and their reception by the assemblage was a fairly widespread sentiment against the creation of any more new counties in Georgia.

The creation of Barrow county came up for first hearing on the argument in its favor was opened by W. H. Toole, a banker of Winder, the proposed county seat of Barrow county.

"We feel that the creation of Barrow county will be beneficial to us," said Mr. Toole, "and will help the state as a business proposition.

"We have the taxable values, the area and the population to support our proposition. We have 12,000 eople, $2,125,000 worth of taxable properties, and 189 square miles of area.

"The town of Winder, with a population of 3,000 people, is the proposed county seat. The town of Winder is split in its very business center by three counties, and this condition is typical of all the commercial territory of this section.

We Are Up Against It.

"We people of the territory affected by the proposed creation of Barrow county are not only divided into three counties, but also into two congressional districts and three senatorial districts. We are up against it.

Mr. Toole stated that the creation of Barrow would not injure the other counties from which land would be taken.

The use of the territory which we ask for the creation of a new county would greatly help the people living in it, for the reason that the creation of a small county, as in any other subdivision, leads always to intensive development and enhancement.

Turner Opposes Barrow.

J. C. Turner took the floor for Jackson county, opposing the creation of Barrow county.

"General prosperity is responsible for the increase in taxable values and not the size of the counties, as the gentleman who preceded me would have you believe," he said.

"If he were in the right I would gladly say, 'Go ahead and take all of Jackson county except a little strip around Jefferson.' We contend that to lessen the size of the county will not make us richer, but poorer.

"Furthermore, the lines of the county now so run as to place Jefferson, the county seat, in the center of the county, whereas to cut off the territory asked for the new county will leave

CAPT. JACK W. JOHNSON DIES OF HEART DISEASE

Well-Known and Popular Former Atlantan Passes Suddenly in Birmingham.

Birmingham, Ala., July 8.—Captain Jack W. Johnson, district passenger agent of the Seaboard Air Line railway here and one of the best known railroad men in the south, died suddenly tonight of heart disease.

Captain Johnson was born in Georgia and enjoyed an exceptionally wide acquaintance in the states which through his line passes.

The news of the death of Jack W. Johnson will occasion general regret throughout Georgia and especially in Atlanta, where he resided for so many years and where he had so many friends.

He was born near Cave Spring, Ga., and began his career in Atlanta soon after reaching manhood. He was for a long time ticket agent at the union depot and left that position to assume charge of the passenger business here of the old East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia railway. He was also connected with the old Ballard Baggage Transfer company.

He left Atlanta several years ago to go to Birmingham, but made frequent trips to his old home to visit friends and relatives. Among his relatives in Atlanta are the Glenns and Porters.

SUFFRAGISTS TO MEET ON STEPS OF CAPITOL

Gathering Will Be in Nature of Protest Against Action of Georgia Senate.

Arrangements are under way for a monster mass meeting on the state house steps at 8 o'clock tonight at the opening session of the annual convention of the Georgia Woman's Suffrage association.

The suffragists have not as yet been granted either the senate chamber or the hall of representatives and their first meeting will be tonight. If the legislature remains indifferent to their request the women are planning to hold their meeting in the open air on the capitol grounds.

Thrive on Opposition.

"We thrive on opposition," said Mrs. Mary L. McLendon, regarding the attitude of the legislature. "If we are not granted a hall in the capitol and if the authorities break up our meeting on the Washington street steps, we will convene at 8 o'clock tonight in the Temple of Labor, which has been placed at our disposal by organized labor."

Tonight's program, after the invocation by Bishop C. K. Nelson or Rev. George A. Beatie will begin with "America," after which the delegates will repeat the twenty-third Psalm in concert.

Smith to Welcome Visitors.

The address of welcome on behalf of Fulton county will be delivered by John Y. Smith, who has fathered the suffragist resolutions in the house, and Governor John Marshall Slaton has been asked to deliver the address of welcome for Georgia. President Marks, of the Georgia Federation of Labor, will welcome the convention for labor, and Rev. George A. Beatie will greet the suffragists for the clergy.

Responding for the women will be Miss Eugenia Estill and Mrs. M. T. Mc-Worter will discuss "The Fruits of Equal Suffrage." Mrs. Susan E. Cunningham, president of the newly organized DeKalb County Equal Suffrage league, which is auxiliary to the state association, will speak on "Woman in Civic Life." The address of the state president, Mrs. Mary L. McLendon, who will preside, will conclude the program for the first session.

Rumors of the organization of a second state suffrage association by the Atlanta Civic league, which will meet at 3 o'clock this afternoon at Carnegie library, have caused much speculation as to which organization would be recognized as official. The officers of the association which meets tonight, however, are not worried and are confident of winning.

All But Constitutional State Institutions Barred From Appropriations Bill

Resolution Adopted by House Committee Will Necessitate Special Measures for Maintenance.

SAID TO BE APPROVED BY GOVERNOR SLATON

Rough Draft of General Appropriations Bill Ready to Be Introduced This Morning.

A resolution that is sure to create a big sensation in the ranks of the friends of the various state institutions, when its full import is known, was unanimously adopted yesterday afternoon by the committee on appropriations of the Georgia house of representatives. The resolution, which was prepared by a sub-committee selected to make a rough draft of the general appropriations bill for the years 1914-15, is as follows:

"Resolved, that the general appropriation's bill shall contain nothing excepting the appropriations provided by law as contemplated by the constitution of the state, and that special appropriations and appropriations for increased amounts shall be provided for by special bills."

Sweeping in Effect.

This resolution, if carried out, will cut off all the state institutions without a single dollar in the general appropriation's bill except the Franklin college branch of the state university and the state sanitarium for the insane. If the others secure any money from the state this year for maintenance or for any other purpose, it must be by special appropriation bills.

Among the institutions that are barred out by the resolution from participation in the general appropriation bill are: The academy for the blind at Macon, the deaf and dumb institute at Cave Spring, the soldier's home, the state tuberculosis sanitarium at Alto, the summer school at Athens, the state college of agriculture, the school of technology in Atlanta, the Georgia Normal and Industrial college, the law school at Athens, the Georgia Normal and Industrial school, for girls at Milledgeville, the school at Dahlonega and the congressional district agricultural schools.

May Affect State Officers.

There appears to be some doubt as to whether the resolution would also cut out all state departments except those created by the constitution. If the committee holds that it does, then special appropriation bills will be necessary this year to provide for the maintenance of the following departments:

The commissioner of agriculture with all of his subordinate bureau heads such as state chemist, food inspector, veterinarian, etc., the state entomologist, the state geologist, the railroad commission, the prison commission, the state board of health, the compiler of colonial records and the Confederate roster commission.

The sub-committee which proposed this far reaching resolution was composed of Representatives Crawford Wheatley, of Sumter; A. B. Greene, of Houston; N. F. Culpepper, of Meriwether, and L. S. Ledbetter, of Polk.

Meets Governor's Approval.

It is understood that the resolution was drafted at the suggestion of Governor Slaton and meets with his views as to the course that the legislature should take this year in dealing with appropriations. It is his wish that the general appropriations bill shall be limited solely to the necessary expenses of the state.

When he will be able to deal with appropriations made for institutions not provided for in the constitution separately and can veto or approve them according as the amount given in each case may seem to be fair and to come within the anticipated revenue of the state.

It will be seen that the resolution makes provision for only such appropriations in the general bill as were contemplated by the constitution of 1877. All of the state institutions created since that time are not within the scope of the constitution and consequently would be excluded.

These are the institutions named above for the maintenance of which special appropriations bills may have to be prepared this year. The state offices which also may be affected by the resolution are not constitutional offices and most of them have been created by legislative act since the constitution of 1877 was adopted.

May Be Reconsidered.

Considerable surprise was expressed by some members of the committee who had voted for the resolution when its effect was explained to them. They declared that they understood that the general appropriation bill was to carry only the regular appropriations and that all increases would have to be authorized by special bills. An effort may be made to modify the resolution and to make it less drastic when the committee meets again Thursday.

Another surprise will probably be sprung on the house today. That will be the introduction of the general appropriation bill and its reading for the first time. Never before in the memory of Georgia legislators has the appropriation bill been introduced so early in the session.

Chairman Crawford Wheatley said Tuesday afternoon that the sub-committee appointed for the purpose had about finished the first draft of the general appropriation bill and that it would probably be introduced in the house Wednesday. He hopes to have printed copies ready for distribution among the members of the house by that time.

Thursday's meeting of the house appropriations committee will be devoted to hearings from the various branches of the state university asking for appropriations. The committee will meet at 3 o'clock, a half hour earlier than usual, so that all parties interested may be heard.

Considerable time was taken up Tuesday afternoon in a hearing on the bill of Representative Smith, of Fulton, providing for an appropriation for the "Junior State," which is now a private institution for the reform of juvenile delinquents.

"ONLY VILLAIN" IN WALL STREET

So David Lamar Bitterly Cries When Grilled About Deceptions He Practiced. Denies He Is Blackmailer.

Washington, July 8.—The senate lobby investigating committee took a look at Wall street today through the spectacles of David Lamar. The dapperator on the bear side, who admits that he handled about in the market place the names of men high in congress, took the committee completely into his confidence.

For all the machinations he contrived there were after all, he swore, but two reasons. He wished to cause an "explosion" which would bring the Wall street men whom he felt were antagonistic to him "into the open" and he wished to insure the re-employment of Edward Lauterbach, his lawyer friend, who had fallen into disfavor with the mighty of the street.

Although the committee tried to develop that there might have been some other consideration involved, Lamar denied such an allegation as often as it was made. He was on the stand for several hours and although five senators walked the gallery at various times, they uncovered nothing that Lamar did not wish to reveal.

Time after time he seemed to be on the verge of some admission, to which patient questioning had brought him, but he veered away and no persuasive or lawyer-like threatening could bring him back again.

He was only playing Wall street's game, he said, when he made such frequent use of the telephone and talked about what might be done in Washington through prominent members of congress. It was the game he had known most of the twenty-five years he had been in the street, he said, but he was through with it now. He was sorry for the publicity that has been given to the reports of influence in congress, but except for that he thought that the end justified the means.

The explosion had occurred, he added, and his enemies had been dragged into the open to prove charges circulated for many years in the financial district against himself and Lauterbach. He summed up his whole story in a few words when he said:

"It was the Wall street game I was playing. In Wall street you don't act like you do on a New Jersey farm."

Later he added bitterly: "I am the only villain in Wall street. All others are actuated by the highest motives and possess the highest ideals."

His Honor at Stake.

"I realize perfectly that my life and character are on trial," Lamar began, arguing that his testimony and Lauterbach's had shown they were not engaged in any effort to get money from J. P. Morgan & Co. or other interests.

"I'll tell you what my motive was," said Lamar. "It was either to force these men to recognize the injustice of their attitude toward Lauterbach and myself or force them to come out into the open with the charges of blackmail they had circulated in New York for years against both of us. Ledyard and his associates had ruined many men. I was determined they should not ruin me."

Lamar said he knew Lewis Cass Ledyard was trying to "trip him" when he began telephoning in the name of Representative Palmer and he determined to fix up a "game" on Ledyard "to force the financial people out, the open."

Frequently Lamar's voice shook with apparent emotion.

Lamar said the whole thing framed up by himself was a "major Wall street operation traveling on parallel lines."

He Wanted an Explosion.

"It was a favorite method of mine, producing an explosion when I wanted one," he added.

Senator Cummins wanted to know if Lauterbach was in the explosion of any of Lamar's plans which involved his (Lauterbach's) honor.

"The question of honor was not considered. It was entirely a Wall street operation," returned Lamar.

Leading Lamar up to a discussion of the condition of the Union Pacific Railroad company, Senator Reed asked: "How many years have you been plowing into the Wall street field?"

"About twenty-five years."

"And your conscience has taken many a flight out of the window?"

"If the end justifies the means, no," Lamar described the "Wall street frame-of mind" as "where the thing to do was to win as long as nothing criminal was done."

"Were you in the Wall street frame of mind February 8, when you telephoned to Mr. Ledyard?" asked Senator Reed.

"I was," Lamar replied.

"When you telephoned Chairman Hitler?"

"That was Wall street at its best."

"Have you delivered your testimony in the Wall street frame of mind?"

"That's an entirely different matter, and I have to face my soul's salvation and I am under oath. I'm through with this game."

Sugar Lobbying Again.

Lamar's examination was finished today and both her and Lauterbach were allowed to go, with the understanding that, if wanted, they should appear again.

With their departure the committee took up sugar lobbying again for three hours, with a short excursion into the land of the wool lobby.

Charles D. Westcott, a Washington attorney, who lives in Cuba, took up the sugar story again. He told of an unsuccessful effort he made to get Cuban planters to put up $25,000 for the expenses of a free sugar campaign in Washington to offset the efforts of the anti-free sugar.

Wilson and Free Sugar.

Senator Nelson caused much amusement when he questioned Westcott about a letter he wrote Secretary to the President Tumulty in the winter, urging Mr. Wilson to keep up the fight for free sugar. The witness said that shortly after he wrote the letter the lines of the free sugar advocates in the ways and means committee of the house were "stiffened."

"Your letter stiffened the free sugar fight?" said Senator Nelson.

"Well, it stiffened shortly after I wrote it."

"Are you sure the president ever read it?"

"No, sir."

"Well, it acted as a sort of starch on those wavering members of the committee," continued Senator Nelson, while the chairman rapped for order and stopped the laughter.

"Oh, no," the witness said, with a show of embarrassment.

Some Great Shows in New York Says Homer George in Letter

News from the front arrived in Atlanta yesterday in a personal letter from Homer George, man-about-town and the amiable manager of the Atlanta theater, to a friend. An extract from his epistle speaks very eloquently for itself:

"New York has many Atlantans here now, and they seem to be enjoying themselves. I meet them at theaters, in hotels, in restaurants, at the all entertainment centers there. He has no music, no dancing, nothing but good service and plenty to drink. His four immense dining halls are packed with people between minutes after curfew tolls, and the wine-buyers and plain suppers get busy. Thank goodness it's only one block from my hotel, so I stay until I get sleepy regularly. Usually the gang entertains until sleep is almost forgotten.

"All the restaurants have turkey-trot floors, and one dances between each drink or bit of food. William Morris has a fine dance hall on the roof of the New York theater. There Miss Joan Sawyer sets the standard. She gets $200 a week—I saw the contract—and only does fashionable steps with a graceful partner. She told me at lunch this week that Morris wanted her to go on tour with the Lauder show. If so, we will get her in Atlanta. She gets $25 an hour for lessons from members of the 400, of which she is the pet.

"But you are interested in shows. Here is my advice to Atlantans coming here:

"First, see Zeigfield's Follies. Then 'Peg of My Heart,' then Lew Fields in 'All Aboard;' then 'Within the Law;' then 'Romance.'

Keep away from the others. The vaudeville bills now are horrible; the other shows tiresome. Spare time should be devoted to the dancing parlors, restaurants and what not.

"I have seen the 'Follies' twice. Fields the same, 'Within the Law' many times, and the others once. The 'Follies' is the most daringly costumed bunch of girls I've yet to see anywhere and the classiest. I paid $10 each for two seats opening night. Others paid as high as $25. Good seats bring $5 now, and are hard to get at that.

"The New Amsterdam is the coolest theater I ever visited. Elizabeth Brice is to introduce a new song, 'Feed Me, Love,' next week, and when it hits Atlanta I expect the bunch to rave for fair over it. Ethel Kelly, the wonder dancer, hummed it to me yesterday. She happened along while I was lunching at a friend's apartment and told us all the gossip. She wears a wonderful costume for her dance, consisting of short knickers, three bunches of cherries and hose.

"Peg of My Heart is the most delightful comedy of recent years. You've heard all about 'Within the Law' already. It is a melodrama of today and an absolute wonder. 'Romance' is charming. Fields' show is good, so much. But pretty girls help it out. Practically the same bunch as came south with ne and Weber are in it.

"Getting back to home matters—the Atlanta will open the first week in September with a big musical show, 'Mary's Lamb.' The bookings are heavy, though I have not prepared a list as yet. We get Klaw & Erlanger and Schubert shows alike, and this year the Schuberts will have twenty productions on the road. Among them will be 'The Merry Countess' and Gertrude Hoffman in her big 100-people show.

"For the benefit of the free pass fiends, let me say that I have had to pay for every show I have seen, and as high as $10 per seat. Passes are out of the question here with good shows."

THREE POLICEMEN FIRED OFF FORCE

jug. I saw the officers with the whisky in their hands, but did not see either of them drink."

"Did you see Policeman Evans there at any time?" Councilman Colcord asked.

"No, sir," Adams replied.

Patrolman David, who is under charges for failure to report visits made by Evans, Bailey and others to the Bradley house, said that he merely went through the house several times with Evans to see if the house was orderly.

Never Saw Evans Drink.

"Did you ever see Evans drink whisky in there?" he was asked.

"No, sir," he replied.

"Did you ever see him talking to the negro women?"

"Never saw him talk to any women."

"Did you ever report the house as being a suspicious place?"

"No, sir."

"Didn't you ever see whisky bottles strewn about the place?"

"You can find whisky bottles in almost every house since prohibition went into effect," David replied.

Plain clothes Officer Moon, also a member of the vice squad, who was detailed by Chief Beavers to watch the Bradley house, testified that the instructions he received from the sergeant were to watch the house and catch whoever went there. He saw Sergeant Bailey and Wood drinking in the house, he said. Moon told the board that he never saw Evans in the house.

"Did you ever take a drink there?" Commissioner Johnson asked.

"Yes," he answered.

"Were you instructed to drink?"

"We were told to get the evidence."

"How big a drink did you take?"

Just Ordinary Drink.

"Oh, just an ordinary drink."

"About four fingers?"

"Not that much."

"Who gave you orders—what sergeant told you to get the evidence?"

"Sergeant Barfield."

Mayor Woodward asked Moon if he could not tell it was whisky without taking a big drink.

The policeman shied at the question. The board excused the witness.

Patrolman Evans denied that he ever drank at the Bradley house or that he knew of other officers who visited or drank there.

In order to save time, Chairman Mason suggested that the charges against R. T. David, Sergeant C. H. Bailey, J. J. Jackson, J. P. Born and M. C. Folds, accused by Moon and Adams of having drank while at the Bradley house, be consolidated and the accused tried together.

Patrolman J. A. McDaniel, beat partner with Jackson, was charged with failure to report Jackson's visit to the alleged resort.

Plain Clothes Officer Moon, first witness called, testified that he saw David, Bailey and Wood enter the house about midnight.

Poured Out of Bottle.

"David entered the house first. I saw a negro girl pour something out of a jug and hand something in a glass to David. About that time Ola Bradley came in and the girl poured something out of the jug for them."

"Was Wood on duty at the time?" asked Councilman Colcord.

"No, he had just gotten off," replied Chief Beavers.

"Was Bailey on duty?"

"I don't know," Moon replied.

Attorney William M. Smith, representing Patrolman Wood, asked the board to accept the resignation of Wood, explaining that Wood had left for Houston, Texas, to engage in business.

Moon made the statement, when questioned by Attorney Smith, that he took an insurance man to the Bradley house one night and bought booze from the woman.

Fired From One Job.

Attorney J. Y. Smith, representing Patrolman David, brought from Moon the admission that he was "fired by the Georgia Railway and Power company."

"Were you fired for being drunk?" he was asked.

"No, sir."

"What were you fired for?"

"For not reporting a motorman."

Adams Recalled.

Adams recalled, told the board that he saw Bailey and Wood drinking in the house. He did not see Evans or David in the house drinking.

He could not tell whether it was whisky or water Bailey and Wood drank.

"You had an altercation with a newspaper man, did you not?" asked Attorney Smith.

"Wasn't Sergeant Bailey the man who framed the case against you?"

"Yes, but I have no ill will against Sergeant Bailey," he said.

The newspaper man Adams had the altercation with was Britt Craig, police reporter for The Constitution, who knocked Adams down for insinuating that Craig had not told the truth about him.

Judge Broyles later substantiated what the reporter wrote.

Adams was fired.

Directed Investigation.

Capt. W. F. Terry, who directed the investigation of the Bradley house, told the board that during the absence of Chief Beavers at the Washington conference Sergeant Barfield reported to him that Ola Bradley was conducting a blind tiger. He said he directed the officer to make an investigation.

Captain Terry told of the various reports which involved policemen in drinking bouts with the women.

Attorney Smith asked Captain Lamar Poole if he knew of any officers other than the men under charges who drank at the house. Captain Poole said he never heard of any others.

Sergeant Barfield testified that one night in June he saw Patrolman Jackson in the house.

"There was gambling going on in one of the rooms upstairs," he said. I asked Jackson if he knew there was gambling in the house. He said he did not. He explained that he was in the house looking for a girl."

"Did you see Jackson drinking in the house?"

"No, sir."

Al Matthews, who conducts a furniture store on Auburn avenue near the Bradley house, said that he saw policemen going into the house frequently.

Carrie May Cutwright, testified that she drank whiskey which was paid for by officer Folds. She told of a near fight between Folds and another officer she did not know because one called the other a liar.

She Lost Ring.

The negress said Folds put a ring on her finger and that she lost it. Folds assured her that it was all right about the loss of the ring, she said. The girl said Moon visited the house, and she related a disgusting story of his actions while he was in the house. She said when Moon left the house he was drunk.

"He wanted me to be his girl," she said, referring to Moon.

Attorney Harvey Hill, who appeared for Policeman Folds, put the girl through a rigid examination in an effort to prove that she was persuaded by Moon to testify that Folds gave her the ring.

Attorney Hill complained that the charges were not specific. He referred to them as "shotgun" charges. Captain Poole heatedly informed Colonel Hill that he had taken the statement and was ready to testify.

Before leaving the stand the girl was asked to pick out Moon from the crowd in the courtroom. First she pointed out Sergeant Barfield, but when she faced Moon she pointed him out.

Negro Stopped Fight.

Claud Gray, a negro boarder at the house of Ola Bradley, told the commissioners that he separated Patrolmen Folds and Born when they started to fight in the house. He said that it was his belief that Born called Folds a liar. He did not know what caused the quarrel.

Ola Bradley, the star witness against the police, explained the presence of the police at her home by telling the board that she invited Policemen Bailey and Wood to come to her house to see the niggers dance.

Ola denied that she ever sold whisky to any policeman. She admitted, however, that she never objected when a policeman helped himself to a drink.

"Did Jackson ever take anything at your house?"

"Yes, he took two bottles of beer from the ice box."

"Did he drink it?"

"No."

"Did he pay for it?"

"No, sir."

Testifying as to the bottle Moon and Adams said they saw Bailey and Wood drinking from, the Bradley woman said it contained water.

Patrolman McDaniel denied that he saw Jackson take a drink in the house. He admitted that he reported to Sergeant Fain that he thought Jackson was drinking and that he thought it would be well to change his beat. Sergeant Fain corroborated McDaniel's statement.

He testified that he considered Jackson a capable and efficient officer.

Said Moon Was Drunk.

Newton Standich, inspector, and Division Superintendent Roberson, of the Georgia Railway and Power company, testified that Moon had been discharged from the service because he was drunk—too drunk to operate a street car.

Moon, recalled, denied that he had been discharged for drinking.

Chief Beavers made a brief statement at the investigation started while he was in Washington.

SIMMONS TURNS TRICK ON THE G. O. P. LEADERS

He Secures in Advance Analysis of Their Objections to the Tariff Revision Bill.

Washington, July 8.—Senator Simmons, chairman of the finance committee turned a trick on republican leaders today when he got his hands on a lengthy analysis of the democratic tariff bill which had been prepared under direction of Senator Smoot, pointing out what the republicans claim are serious defects in the measure.

Senator Smoot had delayed for a month the introduction of the analysis, despite insistence of Senator Simmons, that it be printed. On the last day of the caucus when the Republicans were assured the democrats were through with the bill, Senator Smoot consented to send the document in for the printer. But the democrats have not yet printed their bill and have a day or two to make corrections and laugh at their opponents, inasmuch as debate will not begin until next week.

Knowing that the republican document might contain valuable pointers, Senator Simmons directed the finance sub-committees to go over their schedules today while he pored over the Smoot analysis to check up with the sub-committee tomorrow.

Senator Simmons heard some weeks ago that republican leaders had cautioned Senator Smoot to hold back the analysis. "Don't send it in yet," they urged. "It will give us away." Then the finance committee chairman determined to lay in and wait for the document, and today he pounced on it before it went to the printing office. He found the result of Senator Smoot's careful labors of a month, aided by a corps of experts and assistants. He said some of the analysis point out errors that could be corrected, but that much of the document was found to be argument.

The bill probably will not go to the printer until tomorrow night, as the sub-committees still are checking it for corrections. Meanwhile Senator Simmons is completing the committee report on the measure.

FLAMES LAY WASTE TOWN IN LOUISIANA

New Orleans, July 8.—Independence, La., a town of 1,000 inhabitants, practically was wiped off the map by fire today, entailing a loss estimated tonight at $200,000 to $250,000. No person was seriously hurt.

The blaze started in Klits hotel from a defective flue, soon spread to nearby buildings, and then into the residence section. Fire fighters from Amite and Hammond, La., hurried to the scene on special trains, and when they left tonight only three buildings, a small box factory and two dwellings, were left.

The Illinois Central station was burned and telegraph communication destroyed. The telephone building also was burned. Wire communication had not been restored late tonight.

WARNER COUNTY PLAN OPPOSED AT MEETING

Citizens of Meriwether Appoin Delegates to Fight Proposition in Atlanta.

Greenville, Ga., July 8.—(Special.)—A mass meeting of Meriwether citizens was held here today to protest against the creation of Warner county. A large crowd of representative citizens were present and resolutions were passed urging the representatives of this county and the senator from this district to do all within their power to defeat the bill.

A number of men were appointed to go to Atlanta and protest against the establishment of the new county. Among the strong opponents to the creation of the new county are the relatives of Judge Hiram Warner, for whom the proposed county is to be named.

FIVE MEN TO WORK ON TAX REVISION

Subcommittee of Ways and Means to Prepare Equalization Bill by Thursday.

A sub-committee of five of the ways and means committee of the house was appointed yesterday afternoon to look into the various tax equalization bills that have been introduced into the house this year and report its findings to the main committee Thursday afternoon.

May Draft New Bill.

Among the tax equalization bills which these men will have to consider are the Lipscomb, Sheppard and Ledbetter bills. The sub-committee will compare these bills carefully, and it is not improbable that a new bill will be drafted taking what seems to be the best features in each of the measures proposed and any other good features which the authors may have ommitted. A bill by Representative Beck, of Carroll, to provide for tax assessors in each militia district will also be considered.

The resolution of Mr. Gower, of Crisp, providing for a joint committee to make an investigation of the tax system of the state during vacation and to report a bill at the next session of the legislature was read and action on it deferred.

No Chance for Freak Bills.

The committee showed that it would not waste time in considering impossible measures by voting down on first reading a bill of Representative Coleman, of Calhoun, which would lay an occupation tax of $10 per year on practically everybody earning a salary in excess of $75 per month.

Representative Garland M. Jones, of Coweta, was elected secretary of the committee, and, after some debate, it was decided that thirteen should constitute a quorum.

BARTENDERS' UNION TO GIVE BARBECUE SUNDAY

The annual barbecue of local No. 192, Bartenders' International league, will be given at Spink's station, on the river car line, Sunday, July 13.

Quite a large number of the Atlanta members have signified their intention of being present, and a good time is promised all.

Following is the committee on arrangements: C. Eichel, J. M. Cantrell, J. E. DeLorme, G. B. Hill, B. R. Owens, A. D. Levy, R. H. Neims, John Connolly, Fred Young, M. Cannon.

RUMOR OF PENNSY DEAL DENIED IN WAYCROSS

Waycross, Ga., July 8.—(Special.)—None of the Atlantic Coast line officials here are aware of any deal whereby the Pennsylvania will shortly secure control of the Coast Line and it is learned from an authoritative source tonight that the report sent from Baltimore and tentatively accepted in Jacksonville is not based on facts.

Each year reports of this nature are scattered abroad only to be denied officially by both the Pennsylvania and the Coast Line. The new report has only the additional strength of the recent deal by the Pennsylvania for Southern Pacific shares and the known desire of the Pennsylvania to get a through line to southern points, notably New Orleans. It is reported that the special movement now under way for the Pennsylvania to open a short route to New Orleans via the Coast Line to Waycross, Thomasville and Bigler Junction, Fla., Pensacola, and Flomaton, Ala.

KINDERGARTEN BILL IS WELL SUPPORTED

Measure of Senator McNeil Is Backed by Public-Spirited Women Throughout State.

One of the most important measures to be considered by the legislature this year is the bill providing for free public kindergartens for children between the ages of 4 and 6 years, which has been introduced in the senate by Senator W. D. McNeil, of the twenty-second.

The bill calls for no extra outlay of money by the state, but simply authorizes boards of education in their discretion to adopt the kindergarten system, using a part of the school funds already provided for its maintenance. It is the same bill which was introduced in the house last year by Randolph Anderson, now president of the senate.

The kindergarten will undoubtedly prove a great blessing to small children whose mothers are compelled to work in factories or in other lines of industry. Mrs. E. B Smith, of Atlanta, is very much interested in the bill's passage, as are a number of other public-spirited women throughout the state.

Case Is Transferred.

Judge Newman of the United States court, yesterday issued an order transferring a suit in equity by the Georgia railway and Power company against Eugene McSweeney and others from Rome and Atlanta. The same order directs that the entire litigation be referred to F. C. Callaway, standing master, for a full report to the federal court.

LOWER TEMPERATURES FOR ATLANTA THIS WEEK

Lower temperatures by at least ten degrees than during the height of the heated spell of last week are expected in Atlanta for the coming three or four days. On Tuesday the maximum temperature was 87 degrees at 3 o'clock, while the entire day was much cooler than usual. The same conditions are forecasted for today and apparently there will be no change.

A minimum temperature of 66 degrees was reached early Tuesday morning, which is decidedly lower than the minimum temperatures of the past three weeks and after that the mercury gradually rose until it reached its height at 3 o'clock.

Chamber Directors Meet.

The regular monthly meeting of the board of directors of the chamber of commerce will be held in the chamber rooms this afternoon at 3 o'clock.

A number of matters of interest will be discussed, and routine business disposed of.

VICE SCANDAL PROBE POSTPONED FOR A DAY

Because the attorney of Lena Barnhart, who is accused by Hattie Smith of being a white slave procuress, pleaded for time in which to obtain witnesses to the effect that the Barnhart woman had been introduced to the girl and had been her benefactress, the recent hotel vice scandal which was to have been given an airing yesterday in police court was postponed until today at 2:30 o'clock.

Chief Beavers ordered detectives Tuesday morning to summon C. Y. Kistner, proprietor of the hotel Cumberland, to appear in recorder's court and bring the guest register of his establishment. It is rumored that the registers of a number of hotels will be probed within a short while.

The case against Elijah Murray, the negro bell boy of the umberland, and against J. Cox, the man who figured in the first arrest in the case, were all postponed until today. Each will be given an airing.

SENATORS OPTIMISTIC OVER CROP PROSPECTS

Agree With Representatives Cotton and Corn Outlook Better Than Last Year.

The senators, as well as the representatives of the Georgia legislature, see nothing but bright prospects for cotton and corn crops for this year. The general attitude of the entire membership is indicative of a banner year for Georgia and, while it is hardly probable that the crops will be as good as those of the bumper crop of 1911, at the same time the solons are wont to compare this year's yield with that of two years ago, rather than with the discouraging outcome of last year.

The general concensus of opinion is that while the weather for preparation of the crops was poorer from the first of January to the middle of April on account of the cold and protracted rains, than in many years, at the same time the excellent weather since then for the growing of cotton and corn has given them a good stand, although it has taken several plantings in many instances. These late plantings will necessarily cause a later crop than usual, but it is thought that the last stands will be productive of the best results.

What Senators Say.

Senator W. J. Bush, of the eighth senatorial district, stated that in his section the crops, with which he was thoroughly familiar, were above the average. The corn is very good, while the cotton is fair.

Senator Grant D. Perry, of Madison county, and one of the largest planters in the state, owning nearly 5,000 acres of land, says that the poor preparation will undoubtedly show its effects upon the crops, but that, with favorable conditions for the next month or two, his section should turn out most favorable crops.

Senator W. E. Spinks, of Paulding county, remarks that it is a little early to make predictions at this time, but the cotton and corn were both good in his county, and at the present clip there are great prospects for one of the best crops in many years.

Corn Best in Years.

Senator C. M. Tyson, of McIntosh, not much of an agricultural county, states that the corn compares favorably with the best several years in spite of the scarcity of rain. It has been entirely too dry, but with a little more rain the crops will be fine.

Senator W. L. Converse, of Valdosta, was enthusiastic over the condition of corn in his district, declaring it to be the finest crop in ten years, while the cotton was way above the normal.

AUGUSTA 10-CENT STORE LOSES $85,000 BY FIRE

Augusta, Ga., July 8.—(Special.)—Silver's 5 and 10 Cent store was swept by fire at 3 o'clock this morning and the stock of goods and fixtures entirely ruined. The total loss is estimated at $85,000. The origin of the fire is unknown.

The fire, which originated in the center of the building, was hard to fight and it was some time before it was under control. Damage was fully covered by insurance.

Favor Dr. Thurman.

Dr. J. B. Thurman was nominated for council from the tenth ward at a mass meeting of the citizens of Capitol View Monday night, who adopted resolutions declaring their confidence in Dr. Thurman's ability to serve the city and to attend to the interests of his ward.

The formal resolutions were signed by John C. Shannon, G. W. Cooper and N. B. Lunsford, the committee appointed to draw them up.

ALL IS IN READINESS FOR TRIP TO ATHENS

Mayor Rowe Arranges Special for Legislators Leaving at 8 O'Clock Saturday.

Mayor Hugh Rowe, of Athens, spent Tuesday in Atlanta arranging for a special train to be run from Atlanta to Athens and back on July 12, to take the Georgia legislature to Athens for an old-fashioned barbecue as the guests of the city of Athens.

While in the Classic City the solons have promised one of the most enjoyable times of their lives and the entire chamber of commerce of Athens is busy providing for their comfort and pleasure while their guests.

Building for Law School.

Professor T. F. Green, of the law department of the University of Georgia, is also in the city along with Judge John W. Bennett, of Waycross, and W. R. Simmons, of Lawrenceville, trustees of the university in the interest of obtaining an appropriation from the legislature of $50,000 for the erection of a law building upon the campus of the University of Georgia.

Professor Jere M. Pound, president of the State Normal School, and Professor A. Rhodes, dean of the school, are here to appear before the appropriation committee of the house in behalf of the appropriation for that school.

The special train will leave the old depot at 8 o'clock Saturday morning and will arrive in Athens at 11:15 o'clock. First the legislators will be escorted to the state normal school. At 1:30 o'clock the barbecue will be served. At 3 o'clock the state university and the state college of agriculture will be visited in that order. At 6 o'clock the day's program will be at an end, and an hour later (6 o'clock Atlanta time) the legislators' special train will leave Athens for Atlanta. A basket supper will be served on the train as it rolls toward Atlanta.

The Silk Shirt--- The Season's Feature

The silk shirt has advanced the appeal irresistible to the cultured taste. The softness and naturalness which mark the present day dress was accomplished in high degree with the advent of this popular garment.

'Tis no more than a just word for our department for shirts to remark the superb display of silk shirts shown here now. Tho it is midseason the variety is notably equal to a first of the season exhibit.

There's a range of patterns consistently distinctive and evenly distributed in sizes. To say that they're beautiful is but to give them their due.

They're made of fine tub silks, plain weave or Russian cords as well as solid colors and plain white, the finer ones imported direct from Japan.

THE SHADOW OF THE SPY.

The senate of the United States has acted none too quickly in demanding by what seems to be a unanimous vote an immediate investigation of the alleged governmental spy system, which has assumed such proportions during the past few years as to threaten one of the mainstays of a free government.

This cancerous system has grown so rapidly in a decade that, not satisfied with confining its insidious encroachment to the governmental departments, it has actually reached out to the judges of the country, and, worse than that, its grasping tentacles have actually laid hold of federal grand jurors.

If this system is permitted to live and grow at the rate at which it has developed during the past decade another ten years will put the country at the mercy of the horde of spies who are being supported by the taxpayers of the country at the sacrifice of the liberty and the freedom of the people.

This is the first time in the history of the country when either house of congress has found it necessary to inquire if an executive department was exerting surveillance of any sort over the judiciary. The action of the senate is, therefore, epochal, and the cause of it an innovation upon American ideas which has amazed the country from one end to the other. The great body of western lawyers and judges before whom Judge Emory Speer's address was made referred it to a committee. The next day, after careful consideration, the committee reported, and a resolution was unanimously adopted protesting in the strongest way against this espionage of the members of that branch of the public service whose independence is absolutely essential to the perpetuity of liberty.

To perceive how abhorrent is this Russian system to the principles of free government we have but to compare it with the privileges of the accused as secured in the fifth and sixth amendments to the constitution. The individual is entitled to be plainly informed as to the nature of the charge against him. Here is no information. He may in truth be absolutely in ignorance that the spies are at work. He is entitled to make his defense. How can he when he does not know the charge? He has the privilege of being confronted with the witnesses against him. The disgruntled attorneys, the revengeful suitors, the enemies of high and low degree which every judge is liable to make, act in the dark. Their affidavits and statements are given secretly, and yet they are made matters of record. They go to destroy character. They are placed of file in a great department of the government. No antidote goes with the poison, for the victim is wholly unaware. The accused is entitled to call witnesses in his own behalf, but how can he when he does not know the charge?

There is no failure on the part of the examiner to let the news go out to the world that the judge is under investigation, and the judicial honor, like the purity of a woman, which feels a stain like a wound, is smirched and blackened with no chance of redress.

This suggestion is only partially the wrongs to the accused, but the graver wrong is to the administration of justice and to those persons and corporations who are often accused of crime upon bare suspicion or baseless rumor. If the fiber of a judge's nature is not of sterner stuff than that of the average man is he not likely to become subservient to the wishes and purposes of the prosecuting officers of the government, and their army of satellites and spies, if thereby he knew he could escape the days of misery to himself and agony to his family entailed by an investigation of this sort? The examiner himself is utterly irresponsible. He comes into the community uninformed as to the character of the judge. He is directed mainly to those who are moved by malignant motives, and possibly by that jealousy which "withers at another's joy, and hates the excellence it cannot reach."

Worthily, therefore, and well, has the senate acted in instituting an inquiry into methods which have shocked the country and met with the strongest reprehension wherever they became known.

This is written in behalf of no particular judge—it applies to all alike, for there is not one of the list who is free from the shadow of the spy. All are presumed to be innocent until the contrary is made to appear by proof. But this despicable policy presumes them guilty and affords no opportunity whatever to establish innocence!

The same right of investigation—if it is a right exists against a member of the house or of the senate as against a judge. It is the same against the president himself, or an officer of the cabinet. Indeed, if mistake is not made, such surveillance was instituted not long ago upon the members of congress, and we know that right here in Georgia federal grand jurors have been shadowed for weeks by government spies.

Indeed, so threatening is this system becoming that it involves the very existence of free government itself, and nothing that has been brought to the attention of this congress—tariff, currency legislation, or anything else—compares in importance to the necessity for such drastic action as will take this menacing shadow from the hearthstone of American homes.

BEATING THE TAX BUSHES.

Some years ago when Kansas applied the acid-test to her tax assessments she found that property was being returned at about 16 per cent of its actual value. In a great many counties in Georgia the disparity is undoubtedly much more startling.

If the legislature passes, as we believe it will, a measure to beat the tax bushes in Georgia it will disclose an astounding condition, and it will add two or three millions to the revenue of the state. Elsewhere a correspondent from Sycamore outlines a method he deems just and scientific.

The plan he advances is nothing less than a fine-tooth-combing of the state, from the standpoint of revenue. It is not a new idea, but it possesses the virtue of soundness and also of being commended by the experience of other states. In many respects it resembles the Lipscomb bill, now pending, and drawn up by former Supreme Court Justice Andrew J. Cobb.

He would have a state board or commission of equalizers, and he would have county appraisers, with an assessor to each congressional district. He would make the state board the court of last appeal, as the Lipscomb bill provides.

Whether to go the limit this session and install a new system from a to z or to begin this year and make progress next year is a matter for decision. It may be inexpedient to inaugurate too drastic a reformation at one time. The cure-at-one-dose plan was tried a few years ago in Georgia. So sweeping was the effect that the next legislature lost no time in repealing the enabling act.

But The Constitution does know that this legislature cannot go home with a clear conscience, unless it provides some measure of tax relief. If for no other reason, it must proceed to put the state's fiscal system on a sound basis pending the refunding of nearly half the state's bonded indebtedness. That must be done in 1915, but the present legislature must take the preliminary steps. In the present condition of the money market the task of refunding may be hard enough, despite Georgia's splendid credit, unless Georgia's financial house is put in order.

In the process of putting that house in order the bushes should be beat and the flocks of negligent citizens now doing less than their duty by the state made to toe the line. Whether this is done piecemeal or at one stroke it must be started now.

TOMORROW'S RECEPTION.

The state of Georgia and the city of Atlanta will get closely together tomorrow night at the Piedmont Driving club. The Atlanta Chamber of Commerce is giving a reception to the state house officers, the governor and the members of the general assembly.

The idea is a good one. It is well that the capital city and the remainder of the state bring closer the already intimate relations binding the two. It is especially fitting that the movement should be fostered by the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce.

That body has probably done more than any other organization in the state to show the community of interest between all parts of Georgia. In commerce, in agriculture, in general industry and in development its propaganda has a state-wide emphasis. The reception tomorrow evening should be of material assistance in cementing good will and promoting mutual welfare.

And when some owl of midnight hoots,
Startled, I rise and shake my boots
And watch 'em tumble out.

And keenly does the rattler sing
A woodland love song—maybe;
Those rattles that he wears I'll take,
And string 'em out—this way—and make

The News of the Settlement.

"The only news to speak of," says a correspondent of The Adams Enterprise, "is a happening that happened to Colonel Jitts in the dark of the night, the other night, and which was the meanest thing that ever happened to anybody, as far as I know. It is well-known that the Colonel has been lecturin' on temperance ever since his last birthday when he took on too much for his own good, and that he has never been caught takin' a drink since—though some are ready to swear that he has. Well, the other night some miscreant put six jugs on his front porch, and as it was moonlight the people comin' from prayer meetin' seen the jugs settin' there, and helt up their hands in horror, to think that the Colonel had felled from grace so soon. Investigation proved that every jug was empty, and the crowd give the Colonel the credit for dreenin' 'em dry, an' then flyin' in the face of the community by makin' 'em public. They woke him outen a sound sleep, and the more he tried to explain that he didn't know nuthin' 'bout the jugs the drunker they thought he was. In these desperate circumstances the Colonel took the early train for Chattanooga, conscious of his innocence but despairin' of ever provin' it, and next Sunday he is to be turned out the church."

FINE-TOOTH-COMB TAX SUGGESTED FOR GEORGIA

Editor Constitution: I presume that your splendid paper is read by every member of the Georgia legislature and that some one of that body will grasp the plan which I shall outline if they believe it has merit. Tax reform stands at the head of the list in needful legislation and I have given care and thought to every suggested remedy and believe I have evolved a plan which, if adopted, will prove a great success.

My plan is for a tax commission in every county which shall be composed of the tax receiver, an equalizer and an assessor. There shall be only eleven assessors in the state—one for each congressional district, and these are to be appointed by the governor for a period of four years. The equalizers are also to be appointed by the governor from a list of three recommended by the ordinary and tax collector, who shall serve for a period of four years.

Let these appointments be made as early after the enactment of the law as possible in order for the appointees to collect information and get matters well in hand before the new year comes in. When the district assessor and equalizer meet with the receiver and file the values of property there shall be no appeal. If our legislators will frame a law that embodies these suggestions, then I am confident the state will get an increase of not less than twenty-five per cent and no one be wronged. The tax gathering in Georgia is certainly poorly managed and is void of justice and equity. Fair-minded men willingly pay a tax on honest values of their property while he who owns much but shirks all the duties of a good citizen gets a reversal of the finding of equalizers. He gets his friend or neighbor to arbitrate for him and laughs at cheating his county.

The equalizer, by going over former returns, keeping track of public and private sales, can collect a mass of information that will aid him in determining values. I might go more fully into details in presenting my plan, but believe this unnecessary, for, if my plan has merit enough to appeal to our lawmakers, I am sure there are plenty of able men in our legislature who can give it proper shape.

These men holding their offices by appointment would not be inclined to ponder to the unreasonable exactions of the tax dodgers.

The district assessor would have to visit about fourteen counties and he would gain a large store of valuable information by comparison, for there is great diversity in tax methods in different counties. The tax receiver and equalizer would have regular times to expect the assessor to visit their county and both would have things in such shape that values could be readily determined. The receiver should not be hurried in taking returns and should get lot numbers of all land returned in order that all land returned might be checked up and thus catch up with thousands of acres that have long escaped taxation.

The tax receiver should also inquire of each tax payer if he had either bought or sold any real estate since his last return and record the price. The equalizer should collect all possible data relative to transfers, prices offered and asked for property, which should be entered in a reference book of information. In just a little time things would work smooth, and the satisfactory and Georgia would get enough from taxes hereafter to meet all obligations promptly and pay her old soldiers as much at least as the pauper costs the counties.

APPEAL FOR STATE-WIDE HIGHWAY COMMISSION

The Manufacturers and Merchants' association of Rome and Floyd county, Georgia, is mailing printed copies of their good road plan for the state to every chamber of commerce and business organization in the state of Georgia, with a request that these organizations sign these resolutions with their full indorsement.

Many of the commercial bodies have done so promptly. Each mail brings to Rome additional indorsements. These indorsements will, at the proper time, be placed before the present legislature.

The resolutions as adopted by Rome call for county site to county site good roads under a state highway commission, with co-operation between state and county. The state and county highways will connect each county site with the county site of each adjoining county. The system will give a network of good roads to the entire state of Georgia, centering on Atlanta.

The theory is a good one if guided purely by a state highway commission, and the roads built as near "as the crow flies" as possible.

A state highway commission will be of little or no benefit unless we adopt the county site to county site plan as outlined by the Manufacturers and Merchants' association of Rome.

Rome and Floyd county will reap only such benefits from this movement as will be enjoyed by every county in the state. Rome is paying the expense of this campaign, and the secretary of their commercial organization is doing the work gratis, hoping that every chamber of commerce and other business organization in the state would come quickly to his assistance by returning the resolutions to Rome, properly signed. It has also been suggested that each county send resolutions to their respective representatives in the present legislature, urging co-operation along this line. There is no need for delay. This step should have been taken years ago. It is this or nothing. The past has thoroughly convinced every citizen of Georgia that our lack of system has caused millions of useless expense and brought us no results worth mentioning. If the present legislature does nothing else more than to make provision for the carrying out of this good road from county site to county site plan, it will have made its name immortal.

A Plea for Pure Tobacco.

Editor Constitution: I have, during my business life, been a close observer of causes and effects. When people were honest, and the greed to accumulate wealth was not so great, it was common to rid tobacco of insects, worms, etc., with labor. But since the demand for tobacco has grown so great, the planters of tobacco and other crops have resorted to crude arsenic, paris green and other dangerous poisons, as an insecticide to preserve their crops from the insects.

Crude arsenic is to a great extent insoluble, hence it is, taken into the tobacco plants from start to maturity. The plants being of rough leaves and stalks the poison is held in an insoluble state, is retained on the matured plants, where it is to a great extent manufactured and incorporated into all the cheaper grades of manufactured tobacco, and then consumed by the masses of the common people. Tobacco snuff, impregnated with the paris green, is conducive to vice, stimulating the passions of the old and young alike.

The remedy lies in the enactment of rigid laws that will forbid the use of the arsenic in any form as an insecticide on tobacco or vegetables in their growth and maturity. The tobacco question should be put under standards of purity, and controlled by the pure food and drugs laws.

The World's Mysteries

THE ORIGIN OF OUR FLAG.

It will no doubt seem a strange statement to the average American when it is said that the Star-Spangled Banner has a history that is older than the present flag of Great Britain, which dates from 1801; older than the German Empire standard—1870; older than that of France—1794; or that of Spain—1785; older, in fact, than any of the present flags of the ancient empires of China and Japan.

In fact, it was created during our Revolutionary period. In the exciting times of its birth the designers failed to keep a record of its history, consequently there is considerable mystery as to just when it was first made. But the reason for this is that like so many other things of its character it had a growth and development rather than a specific starting.

When the Revolution broke out, most of the States adopted flags of their own. The Connecticut troops who took part at Bunker Hill had a State banner and the State arms on their flag with the motto, "Qui Transtulit Sustinet." The Massachusetts troops adopted the words, "An Appeal to Heaven." Early New York records speak of different standards. The men at Lexington had neither uniforms nor flags, but at Bunker Hill, two months later the Colonial troops had more the appearance of an army.

Then later were the "Beware," "Don't Tread on Me" flags. The snake flag was used by the Southern States from 1776 to June, 1777. A chain of thirteen links, a ring, a tiger, and a field of wheat were also used as devices.

In October, 1775, Washington writes to two officers who were about to take command of cruisers: "Please fix on some flag by which our vessels may know each other." The first "striped" flag is said to have been flung to the breeze at Cambridge, Mass., Washington's headquarters, in January, 1776. It had thirteen stripes, alternate red and white. Was this our first American flag? John Paul Jones has left it on record that the "Flag of America" was hoisted by his own hand on his vessel, the Alfred, the first time it was ever displayed on a man-of-war.

No exact date for the Jones flag is given. It may have been before the Washington flag at Cambridge or after, but it was undoubtedly before the adoption of a flag by Congress, June 14, 1777. In fact, although we celebrate June 14 as our flag day, there seems to be considerable mystery as to whether that is the appropriate date.

According to records, Congress adopted a resolution June 14, 1777, which read as follows: "Resolved, That the flag of the thirteen United States be thirteen stripes, alternate red and white; that the Union be thirteen stars, white in a blue field, representing a new constellation." There is not one scintilla of evidence to show who introduced this resolution or whether one word of discussion was evoked. The "resolution was adopted," and so it must have had a father, but his name is lost to history. While the resolution comes down in history as "adopted" by Congress that day, it was not officially promulgated by the secretary until September 3, 1777.

It is claimed that the first using of the Stars and Stripes in actual military service was at Fort Stanwix in 1777. August 2 of that year the fort was besieged by the English and Indians. The brave garrison was without a flag, but one was made in the fort. The red was from strips of a petticoat furnished by a woman, the white was from skirts torn for the purpose and the blue was a piece of Colonel Peter Gansevoort's military coat.

There are several answers to the question, "What suggested the Stars and Stripes?" Some authorities maintain that Washington found in a coat of arms of his own family a hint from which to design the flag, this design being two red bars on a white ground with three gold stripes above the top bars. It is not mentioned by Washington himself, however, that he ever made a sketch, always carefully kept, furnish ample evidences of all other prominent events of his remarkable career.

The United States, however, is indebted largely to Washington for the flag. The story of his visit to Betsy Ross in Philadelphia, accompanied by the other members of the Flag Committee, is quite familiar; also the story of how the fair young widow, with a single clip of her scissors, demonstrated the feasibility of five points to a six-point star.

None of the questions in doubt regarding the American flag will ever be settled to the satisfaction of everyone, and the three chief things in dispute are: Who was the first American flag as we now understand it unfurled, who suggested it and who made the first one that was used?

Ponderous Personages

MARK ANTONY.

BY GEORGE ITCH.
Author of "At Good Old Siwash"

Mark Antony's real name was Marcus Antonius, but he was a jolly good fellow and even his political opponents called him Mark. He was the grandson of old Marcus Antonius, who was one of the greatest orators whom Rome ever produced and who never ate a meal at home during the public dinner season.

It will thus be seen that Mark came of a good family. He got a fine education and picked up all the knowledge that a college boy with a big income can acquire. As a result he started out in life with a good knowledge of Latin, a fine back-stroke with a short sword, an irresistible way with women, and a thirst which began when he awoke and stayed right on the job.

Mark was born in 86 B. C., and when a very young man helped Caesar eradicate the barbarians in Gaul. He then came home and, because he came of a good family and was good looking, he got himself elected Tribune, which was a fine job and carried a lot of privileges. About this time the Roman senate tried to get Caesar home in order to give him the grand bounce and appoint a council of the administration—Pompey and Mark lobbied so successfully for Caesar that the latter was able to come home with his whole army and chase the senate back into the foothills.

Mark now became Governor of Italy and everyone admitted that he was a coming man. He had his office boy run the empire while he floated around in a canoe at night with his inamorato and made up songs with a guitar accompaniment.

All this time Octavius, whose sister had married Antony, was getting madder and madder and presently he came over with plenty of ammunition to speak to Antony as a brother-in-law. Antony had a date with Cleopatra and told his generals to go to thunder and to ring off when they tried to call him up. His army was beaten, his navy sunk, and Antony killed himself to escape serious consequences.

"An oration which has already gone into the 1,000th edition."

The death of Antony should teach us all that when we have talents we should not soak them in alcohol. Nothing corrodes a talent so much as alcohol.

Though lightning damaged John D. Rockefeller's pew he didn't raise the price on the consumer.

Our kept-in senators needn't worry: Wu Ting Fang is coming, and he can fill all their chautauqua dates.

Not That Kind of Seal.

(From The Spectator.)

An incident that occurred in the experience of an English officer illustrates the calmness and indifference to death and bodily danger characteristic of the Turkish soldier. The officer, accompanied by a guard of Turkish soldiers, went to the edge of a cliff overlooking the sea to shoot at a seal that he saw disporting itself in the water below. His first few shots went over the seal, and the last shot had gone very near to the bobbing mark, when one of the soldiers came to him and politely asked, "Do you not think, sir, that you have fired often enough at Sergeant Yussuf?" The supposed seal was indeed the sergeant. Presently the sergeant came ashore, put on his clothes and came up the cliff smilingly. The officer apologized handsomely, and blamed himself freely. But Yussuf, like his companions, did not think that the matter was worth a second about. After all, the mark had been very small; it was natural to fire at it. It was unlikely that the officer would hit it, and he (Yussuf) had not minded it at all.

Thinking Is a Lost Art.

(Sydney Smith.)

A little hard thinking will supply the place of a great deal of reading; and an hour or two spent in this manner sometimes shall do more than all the world require a volume to establish. The mind advances in its train of thought, as a reserve colt proceeds on the road in which you wish to guide him. He is always running to one side or the other, and deviating from the proper path, to which it is your affair to bring him back. Do you not indeed several men what passes in their minds when they are thinking; and I never could find any man who could think for two minutes together. Everybody has pretended to admit that it was a perpetual deviation from a particular path, and a perpetual return to it; which, imperfect as the operation is, is the only method in which we can operate with our minds to carry on any process of thought.

Waiting.

Serene, I fold my hands and wait,
Nor care for wind or tide or sea;
I have no more to toil and state,
For lo! my own shall come to me.

I stay my haste. I make delays,
For what avails, this eager pace?
I stand amid the eternal ways,
And what is mine shall know my face.

Asleep, awake, by night or day,
The friends I seek are seeking me;
No wind can drive my bark astray
Nor change the tide of destiny.

What matter if I stand alone?
I wait with joy the coming years;
My heart shall reap where it has sown,
And garner up its fruit of tears.

The waters know their own, and draw
The brook that springs in yonder heights;
So flows the good with equal law
Unto the soul of pure delight.

The stars come nightly to the sky;
The tidal wave unto the sea;
Nor time, nor space, nor deep nor high,
Can keep my own away from me.

—JOHN BURROUGHS.

A Restaurant Order in Japan.

(From the Boston Globe.)

A traveler has written an amusing account of his efforts to get something to eat when on a visit to Japan. In company with an artist friend he made his way into a teahouse, where the two men were ushered by a girl into a room simply but tastefully furnished.

"The girl went out and presently returned with a lacquered tray holding two very small and shallow cups of colorless, unsweetened Japan tea, which she knelt and presented to us. We tried to explain to her, in English, French, German, Russian and the sign language that we were famishing and wanted something to eat, but our efforts to be intelligible elicited nothing save a look of embarrassment and a shy Japanese giggle.

"Try her with pictures," I suggested. 'You'll never put your artistic talent to better use. Draw a fish, an egg, and I'll go through the motions of eating and drinking them. That ought to fetch her!'

"And it did.

"A gleam of intelligence and pleased comprehension came into her face as she recognized the familiar objects, and with a giggle of delight she rose to her feet and rushed away to the kitchen to show the pictures to the other maids. When she returned, at the expiration of half an hour, we expected, of course, that she would bring the dinner. She offered us instead two fresh and neatly folded bath gowns, a couple of Turkish towels and a cake of soap."

LEE BEGINS FIGHT TODAY FOR LIBERTY

Attorneys for Leo M. Frank Indicate They Will Oppose Effort to Bring Him Into Court.

Judge W. D. Ellis, on the motions division of superior court, set 10 o'clock today for the hearing of the writ of habeas corpus brought to secure the release of Newt Lee, the negro night watchman of the National Pencil factory, who was bound over by the coroner's jury at the same time that Leo M. Frank, superintendent of the factory, was ordered held.

As soon as it became known that Judge Ellis had signed the order late yesterday afternoon for the hearing Attorney Reuben R. Arnold, for Leo Frank, made his first move to block the attempt of Graham & Chappell, Lee's lawyers, to get Frank into court to testify at the hearing. Attorney Arnold at once called up the jail and notified the deputies in charge that under the law they had no right to allow Frank to leave the jail.

Frank's Counsel Take no Chances.

No order has yet been asked for Frank's appearance, but his defense was apparently taking no chances at his being brought into court without a fight being made to stop it. The action of Attorney Arnold makes plain that he will fight an order of the court today, which Attorney Bernard L. Chappell declares he will ask.

Attorney Chappell declared Tuesday afternoon that he would request of Judge Ellis today an instanter order requiring the sheriff to bring Frank and James Conley, the negro sweeper, into court to testify in the case. The attorney declared that he wished to have them make sworn testimony as to Lee's innocence of the crime, and in showing that there was no cause for keeping him in jail.

Should Lee's attorneys win their point and both Frank and the negro sweeper, who swears that Frank hired him to dispose of the body, face each other in the courtroom, it will prove one of the most dramatic instances in the entire series of events that have followed each other since the morning when the strangled and blackened body of the child employee was found in the factory basement.

Detectives' Efforts Vain.

Detectives have made every effort to have Conley face Frank and fire his accusation at him directly, and they assert that Conley is anxious to confront his late employer, but on each occasion the defense for Frank has outpointed the detectives in this matter by taking advantage of the law which guards a prisoner from those he does not wish to see.

Lee is regarded as one of the state's most important witnesses, and should his freedom be granted on the habeas corpus, then the next move of the state will be to request the court to order him held as a material witness, and that the solicitor will decline to accept any sort of bond for the negro's appearance is definitely known.

REUNION OF G. A. R. FOR CHATTANOOGA

Washington, July 8.—(Special.)—Representative Gordon Lee announced today that the next annual convention of the Grand Army of the Republic would be held at Chattanooga in September and would attract 75,000 visitors. The government will be asked to loan tents and blankets for the occasion.

The Eleventh United States cavalry, after the maneuvers at Winchester, Va., in the Shenandoah valley, will march to Fort Oglethorpe in time for the reunion. The Seventeenth infantry will also make a hike to the Chickamauga park battle ground to take part in the exercises.

Escaped Convict Caught.

Nashville, Ga., July 8.—(Special.)—Randall Solomon, who was hot by a posse in coffee county, was brought here yesterday and lodged in the Berrien county jail. He escaped from the Berrien county chaingang some time ago. He is a state convict, and has fifteen years to serve. Everyone think that Solomon will re-cover.

About Pearls

The pearl is not of mineral origin, hence may not be classed as a precious "stone."

It is, however, a gem of great value and popularity, especially in the larger sizes.

Pearls are found in the shells of mussels, by the mussel depositing mother-of-pearl on some foreign substance that has come into it's shell. This gem is thus built up layer by layer in concentric spheres. Pearls vary from white to black.

The value of the pearl depends on its size, form and texture, color and luster. A fine pearl should be round, smooth, pure white and of a lustrous, transparent sheen. The best pearls are from the Orient.

We carry a comprehensive stock of pearls. The demand is far exceeding the supply and prices are constantly advancing in value.

John Lindsay and Dr. Connally Are Moving Picture Stars in The Drama of Gettysburg

Whenever you see State Pension Commissioner John W. Lindsay and Dr. E. L. Connally sneak off together to a quiet corner, exchange a few whispered sentences, grin sheepishly, then fall on a guilty silence you'll know there's a reason. As a matter of fact, neither one of these two gentlemen know yet just exactly how it happened.

Colonel John, as the world knows, is Georgia's commissioner of pensions. He is also a confederate veteran with a record for bravery as long as the 21st of June and more friends than the most ambitious counting machine will register. Dr. Connally is also, in addition to being a pioneer of Atlanta, a confederate veterans who participated in many of the bloodiest battles of the sixties. The two men are about as close-knit in friendship as Damon and Pythias.

The lure of the Gettysburg reunion called to them. They decided to answer it in company.

Men Dropped Like Flies.

Now Commissioner Lindsay was among those present—decidedly so!—at the battle of Gettysburg. Dr. Connally was then taking pot shots at bluecoats at another point, but he wanted to hear from the lips of Colonel John just what happened on the historic little field.

On the first morning of the reunion they sallied forth together. The doctor was dolled up in his suit of gray, tattered and bullet-ridden. They made a gallant looking pair, with their straight figures, their keen eyes and firm steps. Colonel John was playing cicerone.

"Over there, doctor," he pointed out, "is the hill we swarmed up just fifty years ago today."

"You don't say so!" said the doctor in intense interest, and, "John, wasn't the fighting fierce?"

"Fierce!" snorted the colonel, "why doctor, men were dropping round me like flies. The bullets were pattering on the ground like a hard hail in the country." The doctor's eyes were filled on Colonel John's face, and he slipped affectionately around the colonel's ample waist, as he realized how the years had been the strain of that hour. As plain as the nose on your face, you could see the two men had skipped back fifty years. They were oblivious to things around them. They were back in spirit on the field that half century ago.

To Fly or to Fight!

"And," continued Colonel John, "the shrapnel sounded like a battery of locomotive whistles. Fellow I'd just asked for a chew of tobacco dropped dead as he reached in his pockets. The yanks' enfilade was like a blast out of hell. How any one of us got out of it alive—"

Swish! A wild, plunging scramble. Then—

"Why, you dear, sweet, cunning darlings!" Smack! Smack!"

"Help! Help! John, what the—"

"Doctor, are you hurt? What's hit—"

Just what had happened? Why, bless your soul, two ravishing spring-sweet rosebuds of girls had crept near enough to hear the whole conversation. They had seen the grim suits of gray. They had seen the glistening eyes, the eloquent gestures. Their vernal young sympathies gushed forth as the song of larks. One flung her arms around the neck of the colonel. The doctor's neck was encircled by another pair of rosy and dimpled arms. And those girls smacked the doctor and the colonel square and flat upon the lips, pardoning the slang, to a fare-ye-well.

Snatched suddenly back from a dream of fifty years ago, were the colonel and the doctor to blame for being stampeded into fright? They were not!

Happy Ever Afterward.

For all Colonel John knew it was a vagrant minie ball or a fast flying though express of a 10-inch shell. And the doctor couldn't have sworn he hadn't been assailed by a desperate yank bent on bearing him to camp for ransom. For a moment it was a question of fly or fight.

Snap! Their minds flew back to the moment over the lapse of fifty years. Before them stood the two blushing and beautiful girls. Their lips were still pouted in that world old moonlight-through-the-honeysuckle invitation. And the doctor and the colonel—. Oh, well, it's none of your darn business! What would you have done, anyhow?

The Aftermath?

There was one, you know. The girls were the daughters of two New York federal survivors. They had heard this thrilling twentieth century saga. They had simply been caught up by the contagion of tenderness and of amity that reigned over and rebaptised the old battlefield. And they couldn't resist the temptation to express their feelings, the symbol of affection and admiration as sweet and as pure as though they had themselves been the daughters of these two scarred old warriors.

And that little incident, the doctor and the colonel agree, was entirely symbolic of the "second battle of Gettysburg." Here are some more of their experiences. But the capitulation of the doctor and the colonel to these two daughters of their one-time foes stand out as bas-relief in their memories. And—didn't we say there was a romance?

"Loved Us to Death."

Since their return Dr. Connally, Colonel Lindsay and the scores of other veterans who went to the reunion have been giving vivid descriptions of their experiences on the resurrected battlefield.

"It was a wonderful feast of brotherly love—they just loved us confederates to death," was the interesting way in which Dr. E. L. Connally described yesterday his impression of the reunion.

"Nothing like it was ever held in the history of the country. It was the greatest demonstration of good feeling and love that has taken place since the war. Why, they treated us confederates just like princes—or rather, like long-lost brothers—for they fell upon our necks and showered every attention upon us in their power. There were four times as many federals as confederates and it seemed to be their highest aim to make us feel how welcome we were. Nothing happened to mar the good feeling existing in the camp during the entire reunion.

Loving Cup for General West.

"There were many interesting scenes and meetings of various kinds on that battlefield," continued Dr. Connally. "One of the most interesting, to Georgians, was the presenting of a silver loving cup to General J. West by the Georgia delegation to the reunion.

"The presentation took place before 5,000 people at one of the meeting places that were provided in different parts of the field. When Judge George Hillyer got up before the Georgia delegation to present the cup to General West as a token of their appreciation for the splendid work he had done as commissioner from Georgia, the crowd of 5,000 people gathered in a very few moments to watch the ceremony. General West himself responded to the presentation speech in an interesting little address.

"With many different meetings like this going on nearly all the time, the battlefield was one of the busiest places in the world during the reunion. There was something doing all the time. It was indeed an experience which everyone of us will remember always."

PENN LIFE RETURNS PAINTER PREMIUMS

Mutual Insurance Company Has Only Paid $3,000 Policy Up to Date.

The Pennsylvania Mutual Life Insurance company did not pay the full face value on the $100,000 policies carried in that company by E. O. Painter, the wealthy Jacksonville fertilizer manufacturer who lost his life in the St. Johns river May 22, according to an article in the current issue of The Insurance Herald.

Painter, who carried $1,178,000 life and accident insurance altogether in various companies, carried three policies in the Penn Mutual, according to The Herald.

This paper states that only the $3,000 policy was paid, and the premiums on the $50,000 and $47,000 Policies were returned to his estate.

It is not thought that the other companies carrying the Painter policies will make any settlement until the litigation over the custody of Painter's viscera is decided.

SLAYER ASKS PARDON IN LETTER TO PUBLIC

Griffin, Ga., July 8.—(Special.)—Andrew McCullough, a white man who is serving a sentence of eighteen years for manslaughter, has issued a pathetic ieterr to the public in which he asks that the people take some steps towards securing for him his freedom. He is deeply repentant of his crime, and for the sake of his family, as well as desiring to begin life anew, he asks that help be given him in this matter. A portion of his letter is as follows:

"I realize as never before the seriousness of the crime, and I am now fully convinced of the serious side of life. I am asking the good citizens to lend a helping hand in my effort to gain my freedom, not for my own benefit, but for the wife and little ones who were dependent upon me for a livelihood. I am resolved to be a man and help raise and love and cherish my family in the future."

MEN AND RELIGION BULLETIN NO. 63

Chaingangs in Georgia

"I forgave you---
Should you not also have had compassion---
Even as I had pity on you?"
--Matt. 18:32-33.

The sun scorched.

Men with guns watched.

Chained men worked.

Shackles clanked.

Repeatedly, rapidly, continuously their flying tools crashed and bit into the earth.

The heat was hellish.

Their haste feverish.

Slacken, they dared not.

They feared the lash.

Four fell and died grading this block in the city street.

Driven to death?

"Not so," say the guards.

"They drank too much of ice water."

God knows; He pitied them; He took them from our cruelty,

Crucified between convicted thieves, to one of these your Saviour said:

"Today shalt thou be with me in paradise."

And having risen triumphant over the grave, to the Magdalene first of all He appeared.

He sought and saved the lost.

Paul wrote:

"Restore such an one in a spirit of gentleness, considering yourself, lest you also be tempted."

For Paul, in the blinding blaze on Damascus Road, had heard Him say:

"Saul, Saul, why persecutest thou Me?"

"Who art thou, Lord?" he cried.

"I am Jesus, whom thou persecutest."

Hear Him today.

To you He says:

"Inasmuch as you did it unto the least of these, you did it unto Me. Inasmuch as you did it not, you did it not unto Me."

You forget.

Something is wrong.

The census shows that in January, 1910—

In Georgia's penal institutions were sixty-eight hundred and sixteen persons.

To every hundred thousand people Georgia had two hundred and sixty-one prisoners,

The average in the United States was only one hundred and twenty-three.

WHAT IS WRONG IN GEORGIA?

Her prison population was equalled only by that of New York and Pennsylvania with their teeming millions. And those two had fewer per hundred thousand; New York having only one hundred and thirty-seven, Pennsylvania only one hundred and seven, while Georgia had two hundred and sixty-one.

Why should we have more than twice the number per hundred thousand that the average state has?

The negro? Not so.

Our prisoners were twice those of Virginia.

Three times the number in South Carolina or Mississippi.

More than four times as many as in North Carolina or West Virginia.

Of all the Southern States, Texas was second to Georgia.

But Texas had twenty-four hundred and ninety less prisoners—only one hundred and eleven per hundred thousand against our two hundred and sixty-one.

What is wrong in Georgia?

The Grand Jury of _____ county, after a recent investigation, said:

"The warden and all the guards were in the habit of keeping and drinking whisky at the camp, particularly on Sunday.

"At least one or two of the guards, and probably others of the officers, have been known to be drinking or drunk in charge of convicts while at work on the public highways.

"Two of the guards have publicly insulted citizens.

"One of the guards has repeatedly been guilty of the grossest infractions of the law.

"Immorality of the most revolting character is allowed and winked at, if not actually encouraged by the warden and guards in camp life."

And this in Georgia—our home!

You know what is wrong.

NOT THE WORKING OF PRISONERS ON OUR ROADS!

But these festering sores, the convict camps.

The stripes, the chains, and worse!

The brutalizing of men.

No question half so grave confronts the State.

Our Legislature should and will free us from our shame.

SECOND OF CLUB DANCES AT BROOKHAVEN THURSDAY

The second of the series of dinner-dances at the Capital City Country club Thursday night will bring to that beautiful suburban site more than a hundred guests. The dinner will be served on the back porch which commands an excellent view of the lake and the terraces leading to it, and the menu will be prepared by "Nora Warner," whose summer dinners have made her famous.

After dinner dancing will be enjoyed.

Atlanta Colony at Toxaway.

Atlanta people who are now at Toxaway include: Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Nunnally, who have a cottage there; Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Richardson, who will soon move into their cottage; Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Wood, who have built a bungalow. Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Inman will leave Saturday for Toxaway. Mr. and Mrs. Milton Dargan, Miss Dargan, Miss Helen Dargan and Milton Dargan, Jr., will spend August at Toxaway; also Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Conway, Mrs. McCerren, Mr. and Mrs. Lowry Porter and Mrs. Crass. Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Hockaday will visit Toxaway in August.

Mrs. A. W. Calhoun, Miss Calhoun and Miss Eula Jackson will visit Toxaway some time in August, and Mrs. Hugh Foreman is there for the month of July. Mr. E. A. Allfeind will visit there during the summer. Mr. and Mrs. St. Elmo Massengale will spend a part of the summer at Toxaway and Mr. and Mrs. Blanton Portson will go there in August. They have a cottage at Lynville for the summer.

Ralph Ragan Resting Well.

The friends of Mr. Ralph Ragan, who is ill with typhoid fever, will be glad to learn that he is resting well. He is at the home of his father, Colonel Willis Ragan on Peachtree street.

Fuller-Berry.

Miss Annie Fuller and Mr. Charles O. Berry were married at the residence of Dr. Stone Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock. The marriage was quite a surprise to their large acquaintance, and only a few intimate friends were present at the ceremony.

The bridal party was delightfully entertained afterwards by Mrs. Quillian at her home, 136 West Alexander street. Mr. and Mrs. Berry are at home at 177 West Alexander street.

Swimming Party.

Mr. Robin Adair entertains at a swimming party tonight. Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Adair and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Oregg to chaperone the party.

To Miss Eula Jackson.

Mr. and Mrs. Morris Brandon will entertain at a swimming party Thursday afternoon in compliment to Miss Eula Jackson.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert F. Maddox will entertain a party of young people at dinner tonight in compliment to Miss Eula Jackson.

Dancing Party.

Mr. Robert Crichton's dancing party last night was an enjoyable affair at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Crichton on Forrest avenue. Misses Elizabeth and Lila Ward Hamilton, of Rome, were the guests of honor, and ninety young people were assembled to meet them.

The entire reception floor was arranged for dancing, and refreshments were served on the lawn, which was picturesque with Japanese lanterns. The punch bowls were set under the trees, and the music of an orchestra, stationed on the porch, was enjoyed indoors and out.

Mrs. Crichton wore a becoming lingerie gown, and the Misses Hamilton wore pretty costumes in pink.

Assisting in entertaining were Mr. and Mrs. Frank D. Holland, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Troutman, Dr. and Mrs. Giddings, Dr. and Mrs. Logan Crichton, Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Cassels.

To Misses Hamilton.

Miss Hortense Loeb will entertain at bridge Thursday morning in compliment to the Misses Hamilton, of Rome, who are visiting Mrs. Eugene Crichton.

Murphy-Minton.

Baltimore, July 8.—(Special.)—A most interesting wedding which took place here this evening and which also centered the attention of Atlantans was that of Miss Nellie Murphy to Mr. Charles A. Minton, at St. Martin's Catholic church. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Father John T. Norton, assisted by Fathers Carroll Smythe and Laurence Brown. The ushers were Messrs. Stephen P. Manly, George A. Luns, Harry A. Roddy and Harry T. Weigman. Maid of honor, Miss Marie Lepson, and best man, Mr. Joseph J. Maloney.

The bride, a lovely brunette, wore a wedding gown of white satin charmeuse, trimmed in duchess lace and pearls, her veil, draped from a lace cap, being caught with a cluster of orange blossoms. Her only jewelry was a pearl necklace, the gift of the groom. Her bouquet was of orchids, with shower of valley lilies.

An elegant reception followed the church ceremony at the residence, which also celebrated the twenty-fifth anniversary of the marriage of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John William Murphy, the date, 1888-1913, woven into the decorations of palms, Easter lilies and southern smilax, which were artistically arranged throughout the house.

Mrs. Minton, as Miss Nellie Murphy, spent her childhood in Atlanta, and has been very popular socially since her debut here. Mr. Minton is manager of the J. Natwick Lumber company, of Baltimore, and is well known and popular both in business and social circles.

Mr. and Mrs. Minton left for eastern summer resorts, and after August 1 will be at home at 923 North Fulton street, Baltimore.

To Visitors.

Miss Lucy Stockard's bridge tea on Thursday will be a compliment to Miss Louise Lorraine, of Richmond, the guest of Miss Virginia Ribble. Miss Meta Munday, of Augusta, the guest of Mrs. J. C. McKenzie, and Miss Helen Nowell, of Augusta, the guest of Miss Lucile Goodrich.

To Visitors.

Mrs. Edward Pierce will entertain at bridge Thursday afternoon in compliment to her sister, Mrs. W. C. Cooke, of Chattanooga, and Mrs. C. B. Pepper, of Columbia, who are her guests.

Mrs. T. J. Butler will entertain in their honor Thursday morning. Miss Shurlock, Friday afternoon, and Miss Susie Park, on Monday afternoon.

To Miss Nowell.

Miss Lucile Goodrich will entertain at bridge Friday afternoon in compliment to her guest, Miss Helen Nowell, of Augusta.

Miss Martha Smith, the Misses Perdue and others will entertain for Miss Nowell.

To House Party.

Miss Mildred Dobbs entertained delightfully last evening in compliment to the members of the house party, Miss Lois Mixon and Miss Ellen Mixon, of Macon; Miss Annie Kate Adams and Miss Julia Adams, of Atlanta, and Miss Marietta Smith and Miss Marie Mixon, who joined the house party today.

Mrs. Daniel to Entertain.

Mrs. James B. Daniel will be hostess at a bridge luncheon Thursday at her home on Ponce de Leon avenue, in compliment to Mrs. Charles Clifton Jordan, of Aberdeen, Miss., and Mrs. Edward Winston Jordan, of Oxford, Miss., who are the guests of Mrs. Earl D. Watson at her bungalow at East Lake.

MEETINGS

Georgia Libby circle of King's Daughters and Sons will have a called meeting this afternoon, July 9, at the residence of Mrs. Goree, 1080 DeKalb avenue, city. All members are urged to attend, as this is a meeting of the utmost importance.

The Atlanta Missionary association supporting the travelers' aid work will be held at the Central Congregational church, corner Ellis street and Carnegie way, this morning, at 10:30 o'clock. Reports of the work done by the matrons at the railroad stations will be given. All ladies are cordially invited to attend.

The regular monthly meeting of the Third Ward civic club, which was postponed from July 4, on account of holiday, will be held Friday, July 11, at 4 o'clock, in the bandstand at Grant park.

SOCIAL ITEMS

Miss Beatrice Dartinskil, who has been the guest of Miss Ruth Angier, leave this week with Miss Angier to visit Mrs. Walter Richards, of Chattanooga. Later they will go to Wrightsville Beach for the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Manley will leave soon for the Greenbrier White Sulphur Springs, where they have a cottage for the summer.

Mrs. Marie Louise Morrick, of Savannah, who is the guest for the present of Mrs. T. Dow, will go to Sewanee, Tenn., for August.

Mrs. E. W. Marsh and Miss Turner, who have been the guests for the past few days of Colonel Charles W. Crankshaw, leave Wednesday for Blue Ridge, Ga., where they will spend the remainder of the summer.

Mrs. Margaret Crankshaw Thomas is spending the summer with her daughter, Mrs. Pratt Adams, of Savannah.

Mrs. Lilly Collier Beall and son, Frank Beall, were registered at the Congress hotel, Chicago, on July 5. They will spend the summer in northern Michigan, returning in October.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Kiser will go north the latter part of the week.

Mr. Thomas D. Meador, who has been ill, is better.

WATER FAMINE DANGER DENIED BY ZODE SMITH

But General Manager Will Urge Conservation of Supply for Six Weeks.

"There is absolutely no danger of a water famine in Atlanta," declared General Manager W. Zode Smith, of the water department, discussing the recent break in the pump at the river station. "The water department is going to repair the big pump immediately, and during the six weeks the work will be in progress it will be necessary for the city to be as economical as possible."

Work on the new pump will be started Wednesday morning, according to the plans of Manager Smith. Work will be rushed day and night and on Sunday, too. While the repairs are being made on the big pump it will be necessary for the department to use the two smaller pumps which have a capacity of 19,000,000 gallons every 24 hours. Manager Smith believes that the city officials should co-operate to conserve the water supply while the work is being done, and has asked Mayor Woodward to call a special meeting and invite the departmental heads to be present.

The meeting will be held in the office of the mayor this morning. Manager Smith will outline a plan whereby the city can cut down the water supply half the amount it is now consuming.

It requires a pump of approximately 22,000,000 gallons to supply the entire city. The two big pumps which will be in use during the rest of the big one fail short about 4,000,000 gallons. It is, therefore, necessary for the city to cut down the supply that much.

"If all waste through carelessness and defective plumbing is stopped," said Manager Smith, "the city will be saved many millions gallons every week, without inconvenience to the consumer."

Mayor Woodward stated that he was going to suggest that the consumers be also asked to help the city out of the difficulty.

NO UNWRITTEN LAW FOR WOMAN

punished her victim more severely than she did.

She was fined $10.75, which was promptly paid. The case of disorderly conduct against Thompson was dismissed. The recorder took the position that Mrs. Lee's attack was not justifiable, and advised the courts as a medium through which to defend her character.

"Whether or not the defendant is financially able to pay the amount for which he is sued," said the recorder, "the verdict proves a slanderous lie and upholds character. The unwritten law is entirely too popular. It should be entirely done away with."

During course of the trial, Chief of Police Beavers, to whom Mrs. Lee had told the story of slander on the morning prior to the sensational whipping, cross-questioned her regarding the story in The Constitution relative to her statement that the police head had suggested that Thompson needed a face slapping.

Mrs. Lee, in reply to the question "Did he give such advice," answered: "Not directly."

Held to the Desk.

She was in a nervous and unstrung state and held to a nearby desk for support.

She was asked if she had made such a statement to a reporter. As she moved to sit upon the desk, momentarily delaying her reply, she retorted:

"No."

"Then," asked the chief, "the story in The Constitution is untrue?"

Mrs. Lee answered:

"Yes."

The statement pertaining to the chief's suggestion, was made to a reporter by Mrs. Lee in presence of her only son, J. J., Jr., at the Lee home two hours or more following the whipping incident.

SUFFRAGISTS AGAIN MEET WITH DEFEAT

House Refuses to Grant Them the Use of the Hall of Representatives.

The legislative machinery of the house began r ally to grind Tuesday morning when several committees reported back to the house a number of bills with the recommendations that they do pass, and several with adverse recommendations.

A good many new bills were introduced, and the introduction of more was hindered only by repeated objections to requests for unanimous consent to allow all representatives having bills to introduce to send them to the clerk's desk. No bills came up for second reading, nor was action taken on any bill.

The flickering flame of hope in the breasts of the suffragists who, through a resolution introduced on Monday by Representative John Y. Smith, of Fulton, had asked for the use of the house chamber on the nights of Wednesday and Thursday for their state convention, was blasted when the house declined to receive the resolution for action Tuesday morning Tuesday's committee reports to the house:

General Judiciary No. 1:

House Bill No. 146—To fix the legal weight of a ba el of lime. Do pass.

House Bill No. 42—To amend section 5645 of the code of 1910. Do pass.

House Bill No. 36—To amend section 3276 of the code of 1910. Do pass.

House Bill No. 178—To amend section 347 of the criminal code of 1910. Do pass.

House Bill No. 57—To put in force the constitutional amendment ratified at the November election of 1912 of act 7, section 2, paragraph 2. Do pass.

House Bill No. 218—To amend section 999 of the criminal code of 1910. Do not pass.

General judiciary No. 2:

House Bill No. 179—To regulate and prescribe certain matters of review, procedure and practice relating to motions for new trial. Do pass.

House Bill No. 198—To make it unlawful for certain persons to operate automobiles on the public highway. Do not pass.

Committee on education:

House Bill No. 26—To investigate the agricultural and mechanical colleges of the state. Do pass.

New Bills in House.

By Mr. Simpson of Cherokee—To establish a public school system for Canton.

By Mr. Ennis of Baldwin—To repeal an act fixing the salaries of the superintendent and others of state institutions.

By Mr. Blackburn of Fulton—To make it unlawful to carnally know and abuse a female under 12 years.

By Mr. Reiser of Effingham—To create the city court of Springfield.

By Mr. Redwine of Fayette—To amend an act entitled "an act to authorize the governor to appoint an additional state depository in the city of Atlanta and for other purposes," by striking out the provision in section 1 of this act.

INMAN PARK CHURCH GETS MANY CONVERTS

More than forty accessions have been made to the membership of the Inman Park Baptist church since Rev. W. Lee Cutts, the new pastor, took up his duties two weeks ago. At present he is holding protracted services, preaching each night at 8 o'clock, and before the close of the meetings it is hoped to double the membership of the church.

Later it is the purpose of the congregation to sell their present church on Edgewood avenue and move into a location more central to the residents of Inman Park.

The new pastor is a graduate of Mercer and also of the Theological seminary at Louisville, where he graduated this spring and from which he came direct to Atlanta.

HERE COMES DOG WAGON

Alderman Van Dyke Urging Necessary Appropriation.

"Here comes the dog wagon, Willie!" will be the familiar exclamation which will be heard on Atlanta's streets within a few weeks.

Alderman Arthur H. Van Dyke has resumed his fight on Atlanta's horde of hungry canines, and is waiting only for the approval of the aldermanic board of his resolution urging an appropriation to defray the expenses of operating the dog wagon and providing a pound for captured canines.

The code authorizes the city to operate the wagon and to charge a pound fee. Dogs not claimed by the owners after a period of three days will be put to death.

WHEATLEY DINES HIS COMMITTEE TONIGHT

Governor, Speaker of House and Senate President to Be Honor Guests.

An informal dinner will be given at the Capital City club tonight by Chairman Crawford Wheatley, of the appropriations committee of the house of representatives, to the members of his committee. Governor Slaton, Speaker Burwell, of the house of representatives, and President Randolph Anderson, of the state senate, will be the guests of honor.

There have also been invited Representatives L. R. Akin and E. D. Cole, chairman and vice-chairman of the committee on ways and means, and the capitol newspaper men.

The purpose of the dinner, which is to be entirely informal in character, is to get the members of the committee, the governor, the speaker and the president of the senate together, discuss the course o faction to be pursued with appropriation bills this year and put the committee machinery in harmonious working order.

BONFIRE IN CHURCH

Congregation of St. Paul Church Will Burn Up Mortgage.

St. Paul's Methodist church will have a "bonfire" inside the building at the Sunday morning service, at which the church mortgage will be burned.

The congregation, under the leadership of the pastor, Rev. R. F. Fraser, in a short campaign, closed last Sunday, has raised $6,000, which represents the indebtedness on the church.

The church was completed about five years ago at a cost of $75,000, and is one of the most beautiful church edifices in the city. Now that all the indebtedness has been liquidated, plans are being made for a formal dedication in the early future.

The pastor has announced that the prayer meeting hour will be turned into an old-fashioned Methodist lovefeast, and it is desired that the entire congregation be present at this service.

FIREMEN OF COLUMBUS FIGHT STUBBORN BLAZE

Columbus, Ga., July 8.—(Special.)—The fire department had a hard fight on lower First avenue this afternoon when fire broke out in a residential section and the flames were fanned by a stiff breeze.

Two residences owned by H. L. Woodruff and Ed Sauls, respectively, were burned and several other houses ignited but were saved.

Schlitz The Beer That Made Milwaukee Famous.

Congratulations for Thompson. The former Red and Black star showed his mettle in the crying pinch and then the Crackers went out and batted in the old pastime for him. Welchonce was the star.

WHIFFS

Deserves Better.

BILL BERNHARDS Turtles have no business floundering around at the bottom of the second division. He has a good ball club, one that is superior to some of those now ahead of him. But things have broken bad for Bernhard for the past month. His pitchers have been overworked, and in a few games has had his infield club intact. But Bill is optimistic. He looks for better times ahead soon.

Attack Strong.

THE TURTLES' attack is strong. With a little bolstering in the box, an elimination of some of the errors on the defense and the club will be heard from. Butler, Baerwald, Ward, Schweitzer and Alsterlin in a row, give the club five good batters for any pitcher to face. With improvements at the points mentioned, we look for them to give the other clubs a good battle yet. And Bernhard is after some pitchers.

A Great Race.

GLANCE at the race that is going on in the Georgia-Alabama league. There's a real pennant chase for you, with a matter of but three games separating the first place team from the last. And if the play of the past week keeps up, there is very evidence of the race tightening up some more.

Class by Himself.

WHITEY Alhermann, the Crakers' field captain, is in a class by himself in one respect. The way he can get rid of that old baseball is amazing. He apparently catches and throws it with the same motion. The Crackers lead the Southern league teams in double plays and to Whitey belongs the lion's share of the credit. The quick manner in which he makes the relay makes a lot of them possible.

Elicited Praise.

ALTHOUGH Maurice McLoughlin, the American tennis champion, lost to Anthony F. Wilding in the challenge round for the English tennis championship, his rise in playing through the tournament eliminating all comers until he met in Wilding, a more experienced, and just as energetic a player, has elicited words of praise from the English press. They refer to him as "The most impressive player in the world, who one day will be absolutely the best."

Lock the Gates.

SOMEONE must get up and close the door leading to the National league pennant room and close it quick and tight. At the present clip the Giants are showing, there will be no heading them for that bunting. They are driving along at right pace at even a greater speed than marked their sensational sprint through the league last season. Only some most untoward accident can keep them from winning for the third straight time.

The Result?

THE ATHLETICS are running rough-shod over all their opponents in the American league, resuming where they left off in 1911, and if they begin to look like the Giants and Athletics again for the world's series. This will be the third meeting between the two and will decide the superiority between them as each has won a series.

All Hail.

TWO VETERANS, Christopher Mathewson, of the Giants, and Eddie Plank, of the Athletics, stand out boldly in the limelight of the campaign of their teams for another pennant. After thirteen years of campaigning under the big tent, these two masters of the mound are kicking in with their best work. Surely they are an example that all aspiring young ball players can look to with pride.

The Battles.

MATHEWSON and Bender will renew their duels again this fall. Marquard and Plank will be in the southpaw duels. Coombs may come around in time to battle Tesreau. Or some of the younger lights of the two machines may be shot into the breach as the leader of a forlorn hope and win fame as Babe Adams did against the Tigers. Demaree stands in the light for the Giants, with Houck for the Athletics one never can tell what the morrow will bring forth.

QUERIES ANSWERED

Under this head the sporting editor will answer by mail all questions pertaining to all branches of sports.

Dick Jemison, Sporting Editor The Constitution: 1. Where is Vadder Sitton now and what position is he playing?

He is with Syracuse, in the New York State league, and is pitching.

Dick Jemison, Sporting Editor The Constitution: When second and third base runners makes a motion to pitch, but turn and throw to second instead, thereby catching the runner. What is he [illegible]?

It should be called a balk and both base runners permitted to advance a base.

Welchonce's Big Bat Brings Seventh Straight Victory; Thompson's Debut a Winner

By Dick Jemison.

Harry Welchonce was the lad who packed the seventh straight victory on ice for the Crackers Tuesday afternoon and scored the second straight win from the Turtles.

Harry stepped to the platter five times. Once he sacrificed, twice he singled, once he tripled and once he hit for the circuit. Rather a useful day of it, if we are any judge.

His home run tied up the old pastime in a hard knot in the fifth inning, where it remained until he came to bat again in the eighth, when his triple packed it away in the locale won-chest.

Welchonce scored his 110th hit of the season, and is well on the way to break the Southern league record for the most number of hits in a season. Eighty-two more will give it to him, and here's hoping he makes twice that number.

Joe Agler, with two singles and a double, and Tommy Long, with a *single and triple, were the other offen*sive stars for the Crackers. The only other hit that the Crackers got was registered by Josephus Thompson in his hard-working backstop cracked it just when it was needed.

Thompson the Goods.

Carl Thompson, the former University of Georgia and Birmingham twirler, made his Atlanta debut and held the hard-hitting Turtles to four bingles, three of which came in the opening session. The other came in the ninth. In the other seven innings, he twirled no-hit ball.

But for critical errors of commission and omission in his support, it is very doubtful if the Turtles would have registered a single tally.

Thompson had a peck of stuff and worked coolly throughout. The boots in the early part of the game did not worry him in the least and the Crackers showed that they appreciated his ability to stay steady after going out and pounding in the game for him.

The contest was won from behind. Two runs were scored by the Turtles right off the bat, but it was just like spotting them a couple of runs. There was nothing to it, when the wrecking crew, headed by Welchonce, really got started.

Glen Liebhardt, of Iron Man fame, pitched for the Turtles, and although he was being touched up right from early, he managed to keep them pretty well scattered until towards the close, when the Crackers went right after him, just like they have been going after lots of pitchers this season.

Love robbed Thompson of a hit in the sixth innin, making the star play from a fielding standpoint for the Turtles. Long contributed a nice catch in right for the Crackers for their best play of the game.

How They Scored.

With one gone in the first inning, Butler crashed one to left for a single, and when Bailey let the ball get away Willis kept on to third, Baerwald then popped up an easy one back of second, which three Crackers let drop between them for a hit. Butler counting. Ward sent Baerwald to third with a singe to right and he counted on a force out play at second. In the Crackers' second Willis singled, worked Liebhardt for free transportation and Bisland sent him to second with a nice sacrifice. Joe Jackson then one between first and second for a beautiful single, counting Wallap.

The Turtles got this one back in the fourth. Baerwald singled over the Big Four, swiped the keystone and dented the platter when Schweitzer shot a screamer to center.

The contest was tied up in a knot in the Crackers' half of the fifth. Tommy Long smashed one down the first base line a few inches to the right of the third corner. But he did not hesitate there long, as Welchonce sliced one between center and left on a line and made a circuit of the bases before the pellet was returned to the infield.

Both sides got men on the bags in the sixth and seventh, but the necessary *pinch wallop was not forthcom*ing and the teams changed tries with the willow with no result.

Welchonce Wins It.

Agler beat out a bit to shortstop to start the eighth and second, Dunn and Thompson were easy, but Long got a free ticket.

Coming to the plate with that easy swing of his and seizing the first one to his liking, he laced it down the first base line a mile a minute, driving over the runs that were sufficient to win and pulling up at the hot corner, where he was left.

Conselman will probably be sent back at the Turtle's afternoon in an effort to make it three straight, and if the big right-hander is feeling well the locals should get their eighth straight. Chapman will receive his slants.

Rube Kisslinger, "the handsomest man in baseball," will probably decorate the mound for the Turtles, though it is possible that Bernhard may call on Harold Krebs may do the heavy work behind the bat.

Norcross 11, Buford 10.

Norcross, Ga., July 8.—Special.—A real interesting game of baseball was played here today between the Buford and Norcross teams. It was all one way until the seventh inning, when the visitors tallied three. Then in the eighth six more came across, tying the score, and one in the ninth looked like a win. The locals came back in the last of the ninth and put two across and the game was over. The visitors got two home runs and made three double plays. The locals used a fielder as pitcher and several second line players, and all showed up fine style.

"Tex" Richards Still Wins; Tuesday's Races Thrilling

Wilmer "Tex" Richards, the speed Lone Star State motorcyclist, had everything his own way at the Motordrome Tuesday night. His record of victories remained unbroken.

Tex won his heats in the Walthour sweepstakes and in the Motordrome purse and then copped the finals in both events. He seemed to have a reserve supply of power that he turned on when pressed and was probably the fastest riders at the track like they were tied to a post.

Tuesday's races were not without their thrills. In fact, every race was closely contested. The final in the Walthour sweepstakes was the classiest of the day's events, and up until the last three laps it was a wonderful sprint.

The four riders jockeyed, pocketed, ran their opponents high on the bank and did every known trick in the game trying to win, but when he found a chance Tex Richards shot through like a greased streak and for the last three laps it was just a question of by how far he would win.

In the race, about the tenth lap, George Lockner, the twenty-four-hour champion, was crowded up the incline, and while the great crowd sat breathless for several seconds, he road the white boards that run perpendicular to the wire netting. For at least a hundred feet he rode there, and side these boards before he could come to safety, and when he did the crowd gave him an ovation.

Jack McNeil's J. A. P. sprung some kind of trouble that only Jack can fix. Therefore the speedy Scotchman was not in the money during the night. Morty Graves' new machine missed fire the first time he started.

This gave Richards, with the best machine left, a clean field and he made the best of his opportunities.

The most pleasing thing of the night's performances was the work of George Renel, the little Frenchman. He has his machine going at a fine clip now and made the pace in every race he started in. He'll be heard from for the rest of the season.

The next races will be Friday night. Longer races are being planned. The Cracker sweepstakes, started by Manager Billy Smith, of the Atlanta team, will be the feature attraction.

Here are last night's summaries:

Two Birdmen Caught in Storm Plunge Into Lake Michigan

Chicago, Ill., July 8.—Two of the three hydro-aeroplanes which started from Chicago today to fly to Detroit were wrecked over Lake Michigan by squalls and fell into the waves far from land.

Anthony Jannus, of St. Louis, and his mechanic, Paul McCullough, were picked up off South Chicago by the steam and dredger Dahlke.

Walter Johnson, of New York, flying alone, was rescued near Whiting, Ind., by the South Chicago United States life-saving station. Johnson's machine was abandoned in a squall after the dredger had started tow it ashore. The lifesavers brought Johnson's craft to shore and he may resume his flight.

Beckwith Havens, carrying as passenger J. P. R. Venplanck, of Fishkill, N. Y., one of the machines which reached Mohigan City in safety, the only one of the aviators originally scheduled to start who made the first lap.

Jannus was the first to leave Chicago. Havens followed ten minutes later. Johnson's start was delayed by engine trouble.

Havens, who left Chicago a few minutes before 1 o'clock, dropped into the smooth water of Michigan City harbor at 1:43 p. m. The distance is about 48 miles. The distance is Macatawa bay is his next scheduled stop.

Johnson remained tonight at Whiting, Ind., and will start again tomorrow morning. Jannus and McCullough are out of it.

THREE MEN KILLED BY ELECTRIC STORM

Elgin, Ill., July 8.—Three men were reported killed and property damage estimated at $50,000 was done by an electric storm here today. Four stores were unroofed by the wind and much damage was done to telephone and telegraph wires.

Arthur Peterson, son of a wealthy farmer, 4 miles west of here, was struck by lightning and killed. Two men were reported killed at Pingree Grove.

This city was in darkness tonight owing to damage to the electric lighting plants. Street car service on several streets was blocked by fallen trees. Dundee and Sycamore, nearby villages, both were damaged by wind.

WARRANTS OUT FOR NINE AS RESULT OF FLOGGING

Quitman, Ga., July 8.—J. H. Miller, flogged a week ago yesterday for alleged mistreatment of his wife, has sworn out warrants for nine of his neighbors, eight of whom he declares he recognized as the persons who flogged him. The ninth warrant is for Mrs. M. Phillips, sister of Miller's wife, who is said to have given out information that brought about the whipping of Miller. Mrs. Phillips' husband is among those whom Miller charges.

The men for whom warrants were taken out all are well known in this section of the state. They are Hardy Johnson, Charles Johnson, Henry Johnson, Jared Johnson, Jr., T. A. Williams, W. Willis, M. Phillips and Mrs. M. Phillips.

The flogging of Miller followed allegations that, although his wife was desperately ill, he had driven her sister from the house, and refused her medical attention.

WILL CHANGE LOCATION OF REFRESHMENT STAND

Plans for immediately replacing the refreshment stand at Grant Park, which was damaged by fire to the extent of about $2,500, last Sunday morning, will be taken up by the improvement committee of the park board.

President J. O. Cochran called a special meeting of the board Tuesday afternoon for the purpose of conferring with General Manager Dan Carey as to designs and the location of the new building, according to Manager Carey the stand should be located close to the lake, at a point diagonal with the mole.

The comfort rooms will probably be separated from the stand and placed in another section of the park, near the bear cage.

The board will probably negotiate for a building which will cost about $4,500, but will not attempt at present only for a section to cost about $2,500, which can be paid for with the insurance money.

Charles Chosewood, the lessee of the refreshment stands in Grant and Piedmont parks, has been allowed the use of one stand, and of the use to continue his business during the time the stand is being rebuilt.

THREE MEN INJURED BY LIQUOR EXPLOSION

Peoria, Ill., July 8.—Three men were injured in an explosion in the cistern room of the Clark distillery, William Denson and Fred Stocked, laborers, terribly burned, will die.

Fire broke out immediately, and gave the firemen a three hours' struggle to keep the flames confined to the one building.

Workmen had just emptied a big copper kettle of high-proof whisky, and accidentally let a block of wood fall into the receptacle. A man was lowered into the vat, and later an incandescent electric light bulb was sent down to him. The lub struck against the side of the vat, broke, and an explosion of the gas in the kettle followed. A secon dexplosion followed the fire, and for a time threatened the big warehouses.

The loss by fire, it is said, will not exceed $30,000.

Those Popular Excursions to Warm Springs via A., B. & A., commence Sunday, May 25. Only $1 round trip. Train leaves Union Station at 8 a. m.

AS AIRSHIP FALLS HE VAINLY STRIVES TO ESCAPE DEATH

Lieut. Call, of U. S. Army Aviation Corps, Crushed When Aeroplane Shoots to the Ground.

EVERY INCH OF DROP HE FOUGHT FOR LIFE

But Fight Proved Vain and He Struck With Such Force Every Bone Was Broken. Ninth Fatality in Army.

Houston, Texas, July 8.—Lieutenant Loren H. Call, of the United States army aviation corps, was killed instantly about 6 o'clock this morning by the fall of his aeroplane just north of Texas City. He had started his flight from the aviation field in the Second army division mobilization camp.

Lieutenant Call was regarded as one of the best army aviators. Yesterday he made a 25-mile flight in 25 minutes.

Turned Nose Downward.

The dangerous thing known to aviators as a "warm air current" is held responsible for the death of Lieutenant Call.

About two hours after sunrise Lieutenant Call, making practice landings, had risen from the aviation field, which borders the Gulf of Mexico, had turned his biplane northward, away from the water, crossing the brown, tented army city, and was flying over the level treeless stretches near the artillery camp, which lies farthest inland.

His machine was at an altitude of about five hundred feet, plainly visible to several soldiers, who say that it seemed to be running smoothly, and that, without warning, it suddenly turned its nose downward and plunged almost straight to the earth.

Fought for His Life.

Spectators said that Lieutenant Call fought every inch of his long drop, first to right the machine, and after that was hopeless, to save his life. Private Smith, of the aero squadron, said that the biplane seemed to halt and plunge so abruptly as to pitch Call forward out of his seat. He caught the forward rail with both hands, his body dropping down and dangling below the machine.

With convulsive jerks Call was seen to try to draw himself up to the machine by main strength, in which to regain the lost seat again. For about the first 400 feet he fought to get back into the machine above him and then gave it up, letting go the rail and dropping down ahead of the plane, body erect and perpendicular, feet seemingly braced to break the shock.

Every Bone Broken.

He landed true, but the force of the lunge was too terrific for the man's gameness to overcome. Both of his leg bones were driven through the soles of his feet into the ground, and against the taut muscles bones, snapped at various places up to his hips. Then the machine came down on top of him. The lieutenant's watch stopped at exactly 6:45. A few days ago he fell about 100 feet into the bay in front of the camp, but was not injured.

Lieutenant Call was born in Washington, D. C., June 30, 1888, and appointed a second lieutenant in the coast artillery from Kansas, September 26, 1909. He was promoted to first lieutenant July 1, 1911.

Call Ninth Victim.

Washington, July 8.—The death of Lieutenant Call today makes a total of nine in the interest of government aviation work, eight fatalities being credited to the army and one to the navy, since experimenta in aerial navigation was started with heavier than air machines at Fort Myer, Va., in 1908. The list is as follows:

Lieutenant Thomas E. Selfridge, dashed to death at Fort Myer, Va., September 17, 1908, while flying with Orville Wright, who had a leg broken in the fall.

Lieutenant E. M Kelly, ground to death beneath his machine when he struck ground too hard in landing at San Antonio, Texas, May 10, 1911.

Lieutenant Leighton W. Hazlehurst, plunged to death when a wing of his machine crumpled at College Park, Md., June 12, 1912.

A. L. Welsh (professional instructor), killed in fall at Chicago, September 11, 1912.

Lieutenant L. C. Rockwell, killed when a plane refused to work at College Park, Md., September 28, 1912.

Lieutenant Rex Chandler, killed when his machine suddenly became disabled at San Diego, Cal., April 8, 1913.

Lieutenant L. C. Rockwell, killed when his aeroplane hit a tree at Olive, Cal., May 8, 1913.

Ensign William S. Billinsley, 1,625 feet in the air when a gust of wind hit the machine, knocking him from his seat across the steering gear, throwing it out of commission, causing the machine to drop in Chesapeake bay several miles from Annapolis, on June 20, 1913.

Lieutenant John H. Towers received serious internal injuries in the fall with Ensign Billingsley and probably is the only man alive able to tell of a fall of 1,625 feet.

In aviation the world over approximately 238 persons have met death since 1908, 78 having been killed during the present year, including persons struck by falling air craft.

MELLEN WILL LEAVE BOSTON AND MAINE

He Wants to Devote Entire Time to New York, New Haven and Hartford.

New York, July 8.—Charles S. Mellen has resigned the presidency of the Boston and Maine railroad, according to announcement made at the New York, New Haven and Hartford offices here this afternoon.

The reason given for his retirement was that he desired to devote his entire time to his position as president of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad.

Morris McDonald, vice president and general manager of the Maine Central railroad, a subsidiary of the Boston and Maine, will succeed Mr. Mellen, it was announced.

MONEY TO SAVE CATTLE, BUT LITTLE FOR PEOPLE

Nashville, Tenn., July 8.—Making the principal address at the cornerstone laying for the Galloway Memorial hospital yesterday Dr. J. A. Witherspoon, president of the American Medical association, termed the action of the federal government in appropriating $50,000,000 for looking after the country's live stock and a mere pittance for looking after the men and women of the country a disgrace to civilization.

"Thank God," the speaker said, "that I happen to be at the head of an association of 93,000 physicians who are making a great fight to prevent disease in this country. And, ladies and gentlemen, let me say to you we are not going to stop till the government realises that the health of our people is at least as important as that of the live stock."

The new hospital is a Southern Methodist institution to cost $576,000.

BY "TIN-CAN" POST WHITEY RECEIVES A LETTER FROM HOME

The "Tin-Can" post showed up in opposition to the regular mail yesterday when "Whitey" Alpermann, Atlanta's second baseman and field captain, received a message of good wishes that was sent from his home town, Etna, Pa., in a consignment of paint cans, billed to the Parlan Paint company, Atlanta.

The message was signed "Plumskie" and came from one of Whitey's friends who is a shipping clerk for a can manufacturing concern in Etna. It was while superintending a shipment of stock that the clerk noticed the big shipment to Atlanta. The Georgia capital suggested only Whitey to the clerk and so in one of the cans he dropped a note, addressed to the Atlanta player.

When the shipment was unpacked here the note was found and delivered to Joseph Hirsch, president of the Parlan company, who mailed it to Alperman with an explanatory note.

Ball players receive all sorts of notes and many that are written on dainties stationery and sent in various ways, but whitey's team mates believe that he has taken the cake for being the recipient of a message sent in the most unique way. Whitey prizes his "Canned Message" highly and also the good wishes that it carries with it.

BARROW COUNTY GAINS SUPPORT

"To alleviate the conditions complained of in the case of Winder, that town was given two years ago an opportunity to vote herself into any one of the three counties in which she lies, but declined the opportunity.

Mr. Nunnally spoke for Walton county and pointed out that Walton county was no more inclined than Jackson to donate the taxable property asked for the creation of Barrow county.

Let Winder Join Old County.

"As for Winder's unfortunate location in three counties, we could not grant her relief on this score without doing the same for High Shoals, which lies in the counties of Walton, Morgan and Oconee. Let Winder vote herself into another one of the old counties. We are willing to that."

Mr. Blassingale, also of Walton county, made practically the same argument as his predecessors upon the floor against Barrow, saying that sentiment in the southern part of the county, where he lives, is almost wholly against the creation of the new county.

Dr. J. C. Bennett, of Jackson, presented a petition with 107 signatures of people he said lived in the territory affected by the creation of Barrow county and who were opposed to its creation.

Too Many Counties.

W. E. Simmons, of Gwinnett county, took the floor and opposed Barrow county. "We already have many counties than we need. It would be better if the smaller counties were merged into the larger ones instead of creating new counties. I understand that a petition to this very end has already been circulated in Banks county. The time has come to call a halt on new counties."

Mr. Simmons created a mild sensation when he attacked the figures presented by Mr. Toole as misrepresenting the size of Winder's population.

He stated that the tax rate in the new county would jump 200 or 300 per cent.

Mr. Simmons charged the Barrow county people with maintaining a lobby at thousands of dollars of expense, and apparently deplored the fact that the board of county commissioners of his county would not allow a lobby to oppose the creation of the new county.

When Mr. Simmons accused the Barrow county and the taxes paid therefrom the figures regarding the area of Barrow county and the taxes paid thereon, he precipitated a tilt of words with Lewis Russell, of Winder, in which all parliamentary rules were cast to the four winds and eldritching words were used freely. The chairman's gavel brought a stop just as words were apparently beginning to fall to answer the purpose.

The transquility of the argument, however, was immediately broken again, when Mr. Toole took the floor in rebuttal of the arguments against Barrow county.

Declares Statement Untrue.

In the outset of his rebuttal, Mr. Toole made the statement that all that Mr. Simmons had said was untrue, and accused Mr. Simmons of having represented to the people of the affected territory that taxes would increase to $40 on the $1,000.

Mr. Simmons was on his feet in an instant, and shouted hotly:

"I did not say it!"

The chair once more interfered.

Mr. Toole produced telegrams from new counties to prove his contention as to the betterment of conditions produced by the formation of new counties.

Candler County's Plea.

This concluded the argument upon the creation of Barrow county and Mr. Sills took the floor in behalf of the creation of Candler county.

Mr. Sills argued that Bulloch, Emanuel and Tattnall counties, from parts of which it is proposed to create Candler county, would remain practically uninjured by the creation of the new county.

Mr. Sills contended that the portions of the counties which were now asking to be formed into a new county were not receiving proper attention from the counties of which they are now a part and felt that they could better themselves by being able to work for themselves. He introduced affidavits and petitions backing Candler county in preference to Stonewall.

Following Mr. Sills, Judge H. W Evans waxed eloquent in an address in behalf of Stonewall county, of which at the end of his argument he freely admitted that he was the paid attorney.

After declaring that a cut in the territory in question was inevitable, Judge Evans made his principal point that this cut should be made in favor of Stonewall county by reason of the fact that Stillmore, the county seat, has six railroad lines radiating from it against one from Metter, the proposed seat of Candler county.

Difficult to Reach County Seat.

He introduced Mr. Wren, of Emanuel county, as a witness to the difficulty that people in the affected territory of that county experience in reaching the county seat.

Mr. Deal, of Bulloch, opposed the creation of Stonewall and Candler counties principally on the ground that the new counties wants too much territory. He offered little objection, provided the eastern line of the new county did not extend beyond the 15-mile creek, a small stream in the extreme western part of Bulloch county. He said that the people east of the 15-mile creek don't want to go into a new county. He presented several petitions supporting his statement.

He was also supported by Mr. Chapman and J. T. Klngery, of the 15-mile creek neighborhood, and J. E. J. Anderson, ex-representative of Bulloch county.

Oppose New Counties.

J. D. Coleman, of Tattnall county, former chairman of the board of commissioners of that county, stated that Tattnall was practically a unit in opposition to the creation of either of the new counties.

Dr. Strickland, of Tattnall, opposed the new counties on account of the tax and school question.

J. B. Kelley, of Tattnall, and Mr. Turner, of Bulloch, also opposed the creation of the new counties.

No new speakers or argument was produced in the rebuttals.

SLOW POISON TAKEN BY GROOM AND BRIDE

Englewood, N. J., July 8.—Physicians at the Englewood hospital were hopeful today for the ultimate recovery of John L. Peltrowitz and the young woman he says is his bride, both of whom are suffering from a slow poison taken yesterday with suicidal intent. They were despondent because the young man's father had cut off his allowance and fearful of separation. The girl bride says she was Barbara M. Akerman, of Baltimore, before her marriage. Her statement was borne out by her sister.

Peltrowitz declined to say where he lived, but the girl's relatives said he formerly was a Princeton man.

"The Georgia Junior State" Urged Before Legislators

In the spirit of establishing a state reformatory for boys and girls, supported by adequate appropriations from the Georgia legislature, the executive committee of the Juvenile Protective association appeared yesterday afternoon before the meeting of the appropriations committee of the house.

"The Georgia Junior State," as the proposed institution is to be called, is planned to be established on a large tract of land in Jackson county, near Athens, to which the Juvenile Protective association now holds bond for title.

Judge W. R. Hammond, who is a member of the committee, spoke in the interest of the bill which has been introduced to appropriate the necessary funds. Rev. Crawford Jackson also read a detailed statistical report, comparing Georgia's support of juvenile reformatories with that of other states. The other members of the executive committee present were L. G. Hardman, Clifford L. Anderson, Charles S. Norden, E. C. Callaway, James L. Anderson and Rev. A. R. Holderby.

Reformatory Gets $15,000.

The Georgia State reformatory, created in 1905 and placed on the state prison farm, receives about $15,000 out of the fund set apart for the prison commission of Georgia," said Mr. Jackson in his report, which was litened to with great interest.

"Alabama appropriated a total of $47,000 for reformatory buildings—three times as much as Georgia, while Georgia's assessed value of property in 1912 exceeded Alabama's by over $275,000,000.

"South Carolina has already appropriated this year for maintenance, salaries and buildings for the industrial school at Florence, about $7,000 more than Georgia's reformatory fund, besides having a reformatory for negro youths.

"The state of Virginia spent for three juvenile reformatories for 1912 $60,441, or more than four times as much as Georgia.

"The Idaho Industrial Training school had a biennial appropriation for 1911-1912 for maintenance, $66,722, and for improvements for 1911, $23,000, making a total of five times as much as Georgia appropriates, while Georgia is ahead of Idaho half a million dollars in taxable property.

An Appropriation in Kansas.

"Kansas appropriated for 1912 a total of $88,726, or nearly six times as much as Georgia, but while Georgia has a larger population than Kansas, the latter state is the wealthiest of the two.

"Michigan's total appropriations for reformatories last year were $325,545, twenty-three times Georgia's appropriation, while Michigan's wealth is only about 2 1-4 times as much as Georgia's.

"A study of these appropriations for the reclamation and training of the neediest class of children in society of the states named puts Georgia in the background or in an embarrassing situation.

"Georgia has made encouraging appropriations for her deaf and dumb children, her blind youths, while municipal governments and private philanthropists have made and are making provision for the sick child and adult all over the state, and can boast of supporting as many as 25 orphanages for innocent white orphan children, yet the largest class of them all, the strayed lambs, or juvenile delinquents, potentialities for the weal or woe of potentialities for th weal or woe of society—for this largest and neediest class the very least provision is made."

WEDNESDAY CLOSING CLUB IS ORGANIZED

Members Will Work to Have All Retail Stores Closed Next Year.

The Atlanta Wednesday Closing club was formed at a banquet of the retail grocers and butchers at the new Ansley hotel last night. This club is composed of prominent retailers, with the object of having every retail store in Atlanta closed each Wednesday afternoon during the summer months of 1914. About half are closing this year.

Francis E. Kamper, the toastmaster, stated that he thought all of the large department stores would adopt Wednesday afternoon next year, instead of their present Saturday half-holiday.

Charles S. Robinson, representing the furniture men, said that half of the furniture dealers were closing this year and predicted that all would join next year.

C. O. Camp, the prime mover of the organization, said that a Wednesday half-holiday lessened the cry for Sunday baseball. This gives the clerks a chance to see the game, without desecrating the Sabbath, and to attend Wednesday night prayer meeting.

H. C. Hall, representing the clerks, said that the men on the firing line did better work in the hot weather with a half-holiday each week.

It was announced that July 16 would be grocers' day at Ponce de Leon. Atlanta and Montgomery play then. The grocers will sell 2,000 grandstand tickets. A percentage of the sale will be given the Retail Grocers and Butchers' association, which will defray the expenses of the association's parade.

Following are the officers of the Atlanta Wednesday Closing club which were elected last night:

ATLANTA'S STRIDES FROM DAY TO DAY

Manager Dutton, of the Piedmont hotel, refused an offer of an $18,000 yearly lease for his hotel lounging room, 40x25 feet, facing on Peachtree and Luckie streets, made by a local banking concern yesterday.

Mr. Dutton's reason for refusing the offer was that when the Piedmont was built this lounging room was especially built large and commodious, in order that the public could have a place to meet their friends, and the ladies in the hotel could do their reading and writing in pleasant quar-

FIRE AND SWORD RAVAGE BALKANS

Reports Confirm Ferocity of Fighting — Greeks Claim a Great Victory — Bulgars Burn Women.

London, July 8.—The Balkan war having now been regularized by formal declarations it is understood that the powers will make no attempt to mediate, the Official Gazette at Belgrade published tonight notice of a formal declaration of war against Bulgaria.

Military news was lacking today. Servian dispatches admit a strong Bulgarian column has invaded Servia at Konsarevita, which town they occupied after setting fire to the adjacent villages. Cholera has been brought to Belgrade by the wounded.

Official Greek dispatches claim a great victory at Doiran, where the Bulgarians were destroyed and that the Bulgarians fled in such confusion that they even left behind loaded guns.

This victory is considered of great importance because Doiran was the Bulgarian verbalizer center and all the provisions fell into the hands of the Greeks.

It is reported from Sofia that the tenth Bulgarian division, which reinforced General Ivanoff, was brought from the Tchatalja district. This would indicate compliance with Turkey's demand that the Bulgarians evacuate Turkish territory.

The Bulgarians are taking the offensive against Nish, according to announcement from Sofia.

The Turkish government today decided to occupy with its armed forces all the territory within the Enos-Midia line, running from the Aegean sea to the Black sea, which had been virtually decided upon as the future boundary line between Bulgarian and Turkey, according to a Constantinople telegram to The Exchange Telegraph company.

Atrocities by Bulgars.

Saloniki, July 8.—Father Michel, superior of the French Catholic mission at Kilkish, confirms reports of massacres committed in that district by Bulgarian irregulars. In one instance they burned to death seventy hundred persons belonging to Kukurt by imprisoning them in a mosque under which they exploded bombs, setting the building on fire. Then they previously assembled the victims' wives and daughters to witness the spectacle.

Even more terrible scenes were enacted at Kilkish, Planitza and Ravenovo, women also being burned to death.

Father Michel asserts that among the irregulars responsible for these atrocities were business and professional men and students from Sofia.

DEATH OF BILLINGSLEY CHARGED TO ELEMENTS

Washington, July 8.—Only the unexplored elements can be held responsible for the death of Ensign William D. Billingsley, the young naval aviator who plunged 1,600 feet to his death in Chesapeake bay, near Annapolis, June 20. This was the report to the navy department today from the special board appointed to investigate the tragedy. The board found that there had been no fault or negligence on the part of Billingsley or anybody else connected with the service.

The evidence showed that the aeroplane in which Billingsley was carrying Lieutenant John H. Towers as a passenger was unbalanced by a puff of wind from behind. The aviator was thrown into the control levers, making the machine unmanageable, and then tumbled into space. The machine had been carefully inspected before the flight, the report said, and Billingsley had qualified for the aero. Lieutenant Towers, who, clinging to the disabled air craft during its wild flight to the water, is now recovering at the navy academy hospital.

BLEASE STRETCHING HIS PARDON RECORD

Columbia, S. C., July 8.—Governor Blease today exercised executive clemency in sixteen cases, which makes his pardon record approximate a total of nearly 700 prisoners released from the penitentiary since he became chief executive of the state over two years ago.

The crimes for which those released today were convicted include: Murder, 2; manslaughter, 1; assault and battery, 4; bigamy, 1; burglary, 1; forgery, 1; grand larceny, 1; housebreaking, 1, and violation of the dispensary law, 1.

The governor said this morning that he would discontinue issuing pardons until Thanksgiving day, which day last year he signalized by releasing 79 prisoners at one time.

If Women Get to Voting Will They Control Men's Attire?

If women are given the vote, will they petition the state or council to force men to wear petticoats?

Why, if it is so frightfully shocking for women to display now and then a little more than their feet, is it proper for men to go without petticoats?

When women see men wearing linen trousers or thin trousers of any kind, they go right on and "rubber," and cry out "Look at his legs!" or "He has a good figure," or "There is some class to him!" They don't cry out about seeing so much of his anatomy, and petition the legislature or council and ask that he change his mode of dress.

They go right on and never notice them. At the surf women are always sorry they have to see men in their bathing suits, for there never has been a case yet where a man looked well in his bathing suit. Yet no one ever hears of women bothering about it, and appointing a committee to have mothers. It must be awful for these greater deities of humanity to have to realize that we are their inferiors, they are dependent after all on a woman for being here at all.

It may be that in their faith in themselves, and their belief in their invention, they will be able to compromise some way with the laws of creation and grow just like Topsy did without knowing how it happened. Until that does happen, the original Topsy of ebony hue immortalized in Uncle Tom's Cabin will be the only one until her species begins. The men who would dictate to harmless woman about wearing a bathing suit to her ankles, and a ballet skirt with a train, will have to go on being borne by women and trained by them until they have attained their majority and can vote about the way "Diddy Two Shoes" wears her sash or Susie Slick powders her nose.

There are too many great problems for men of state and men of municipal authority to work out for them to be wasting their time mixing up in the feminine business of styles, dressmakers and coquettish women who are really always doing and dressing the way they think they are the most pleasing to men.

MACON'S BOOSTER TRAIN TO TRAVEL THRO' NORTH

Object of Trip to Advertise Macon-Made Products and Attract Settlers.

Macon, Ga., July 8.—(Special.)—Last year Macon sent a trade special through south and west Georgia for a week's trip, but this year it has been decided to attempt something on a broader scale, and a booster train will be run from this city in the early fall through several of the northern states with Minneapolis, Minn., as the northern terminus. Two or three different routes have been offered by the railroad commanders, but so far nothing has been done toward a selection. Different cities will be touched going and coming.

The principal object of the trip will be to acquaint the people in the territory covered with Macon-made products and to induce northern farmers to come to this state and settle permanently. G. E. Paine, who has seen trains similar to the one Macon proposes to operate, says that if twelve good farmers from the north can be induced to settle near Macon, the expense of running the train will be justified.

At present a committee is calling on the business men of the city to learn the sentiment regarding the proposition.

HE USED DOG AS BUOY AND SAVED MAN'S LIFE

Atlantic City, N. J., July 8.—Theodore Leslie, 17 years old, used his dog, "Scout," as a buoy today, and rescued Alfred Meyers, a cottager here, from drowning in the ocean, after a hard struggle with cross currents that had overcome Meyers. They were swept two blocks from their starting point and reached the beach exhausted.

6,000 BLACK WORKMEN JOIN LABOR UPHEAVAL

Johannesburg, South Africa, July 8.—Six thousand native Black workmen from three of the large gold mines on the Rand joined in the labor upheaval today. Should the disaffection among them spread to the other 250,000 natives on the rand it will mean that the white inhabitants will be confronted again with the "black peril" which has been quiescent for some years.

One thousand natives employed in one mine broke out of their compound. They were awed by rifles of the troops and returned to their headquarters.

Most of the white strikers have returned to work.

$106,625,000 PER YEAR FROM THE INCOME TAX

That Is the Estimate of the U. S. Commissioner of Internal Revenue.

Washington, July 8.—Total yearly revenues of the corporation tax and the income tax section of the new tariff bill as revised by the senate were estimated today at $106,625,000 by the commissioner of internal revenue in statistics prepared for Chairman Simmons, of the finance committee. The corporation tax is expected to yield $37,000,000 and the income tax $68,625,000. As the income tax cannot operate the first two months of this year, the total revenue for 1913 will be decreased to $95,000,000. These estimates are higher than those for the bill as it passed the house.

SHE STARVED HERSELF TO SECURE RELEASE

London, July 8.—Miss Kitty Marion, a suffragette, who was sentenced July 3 to three years' penal servitude, for setting fire to the stands of the Hurst Park race course, was released from prison tonight on the license. She was in a very weak condition. When sentence was pronounced upon her Miss Marion said:

"I shall hunger strike and shall refuse to leave prison under the 'cat mouse' act. I shall resist upon starving there until dead or released a free woman."

3,640,000,000 Fish Eggs.

Washington, July 8.—The year just closed established a record for the United States bureau of fisheries in the number of eggs taken and later planted. It ran to the enormous total of 3,640,000,000, which broke the record made in the previous year by 1,270,000,000. The largest number of any one kind was in flat fish, of which 800,000,000 eggs were planted. To increase the supply of lobsters along the New England coast, the bureau is considering the establishment in Rhode Island of a plant for lobster breeding.

SON KILLS FATHER TO PROTECT MOTHER

Central, S. C., July 8.—John Dobson, a farmer, aged 50, residing near here, died today from wounds received last night in a pistol fight with his 17-year-old son. It is said that the boy attempted to aid his mother, whom Dobson is alleged to have been mistreating. Dobson, returning home, fatally wounded another son who had taken no part in the difficulty. After the shooting the elder boy escaped and surrendered to the sheriff today. Dobson was shot four times.

COW IS PROMISED GIRL BY SECRETARY DANIELS

Philadelphia, July 8.—As the result of a tactful remark by the little daughter of the superintendent of the naval home and hospital in this city, made to Secretary of the Navy Daniels today, the government will provide the home with a cow. Secretary Daniels, with several officials, inspected the navy yard and the naval home and hospital.

Captain Hetherington, superintendent of the home, was absent when the party arrived and the officials were received by his daughter. After summoning her father, she said to Secretary Daniels:

"The home and surrounding grounds are beautiful and but one thing is desired."

"What is that?" asked Mr. Daniels, "a cow," the girl replied.

The secretary assured Miss Hetherington Uncle Sam would provide the cow.

Secretary Daniels will return to Washington this evening.

Rural Carrier Sentenced.

Macon, Ga., July 8.—(Special.)—Richard W. Blackshear, Jr., of Dublin, a 21-year-old sub rural route carrier, this morning entered a plea of guilty to misappropriating government funds and was sentenced to serve three years in the national training school, District of Columbia, by Judge Emory Speer.

The young man, while acting as carrier, was entrusted with various small sums of money to be used in the purchase of money orders and these he appropriated to his own use.

IN DEATH GRAPPLE ON MOUNTAIN TOP

Hair-Raising Story of Battle of U. S. Troops With Spear-Hurling Moros—No Quarter Given or Expected.

Washington, July 8.—A hair-raising story of hand-to-hand conflict with spear hurling Moro savages in a battle to the death on an isolated mountain top with no quarter asked or expected, was cabled to the war department from the Philippines today by Major General Bell. It was the commanding general's report on the campaign of General John J. Pershing, which resulted in the extermination of the last considerable band of rebellious Moros and the complete disarmament of this war-like tribe.

Long ago most of the Moros gave up their arms peacefully, but the fierce tribesmen of Lati Ward, embracing about twenty square miles on the northern coast of the island of Jolo, made ready for war whenever there was a suggestion of depriving them of their weapons. Recently nearly ten thousand of them stampeded to Mount Bagsak, a wild peak which they believed impregnable. Many conferences and patient diplomacy drew most of them away and sent them to their homes, but three or four hundred of the most desperate fortified their stronghold and prepared to fight it out with the American nation.

Hand to Hand Fighting.

"When no reasonable hope of a peaceful solution remained," says General Bell in his report today, "Brigadier General Pershing arrived at Jolo with a battalion during the night of June 10, landing nearly, surrounded Bagsak the next night to prevent a stampede of the women and children and non-combatants to the mountain again. Assaults began at daylight and there was fierce fighting, part of it hand-to-hand, during five days marked by tenacious resistance and counter attacks from Moros rushing on troops with barongs and hurling spears at the storming lines.

"The control of troops by the officers was admirable, thus preventing a greater number of casualties. The enemy was completely defeated and all the strongholds were finally taken. One of the Moros would surrender; some escaped, but the remainder were killed, including Amil and his principal lieutenants during the engagements.

Guns Dragged Up Mountain.

"Our mountain guns were dragged up the mountain by block and tackle, finally reached commanding positions, and rendered material assistance. Apparently officers and men behaved without exception with admirable courage and determination, though constantly on duty, five days and nights of little rest, and torrential rain. The district commander has commended Captain Taylor A. Nichols and Captain George C. Charlton of the Philippine scouts, and First Lieutenant Edwin H. Rackley, of the same organization, for conspicuous courage and leadership.

"Brigadier General Pershing personally planned and conducted the Bagsak operations, commanding the forces in person, and sharing all hardships and dangers of the troops. From all information obtainable the ordeals undergone are believed to be unsurpassing. He has been subjected to much criticism because of patient negotiations, forbearance and efforts to avoid a resort to fighting, but succeeded in avoiding unnecessary injury to non-combatants and minimized casualties in his own command."

100,000 RAILWAY MEN THREATEN TO STRIKE

Forty-Five Eastern Roads and Their Employees on the Verge of Contest.

New York, July 8.—Peace overtures ceased here today between 45 eastern railroads and members of the Order of Railroad Conductors and Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, after the employes' representatives in conference with the railroad managers announced that 94 per cent of the men had voted to strike for increased wages.

Final action on the proposed tie-up remains with the general committee of one thousand of the conductors and trainmens' organizations, and a meeting has been called for Saturday. It is the unanimous opinion in operating circles that the strike vote will be ratified unless the companies offer increased wages, or agree to arbitrate.

During negotiations today the Erie railroad and the subsidiaries, the New Jersey and New York and the New York, Susquehanna and Western, withdrew, leaving forty-two roads in the conference. The Erie system claims the increase demanded represents an annual cost to the three roads of $1,200,000 and that the system in paying this sum would suffer in safety appliances and equipment.

The managers' conference committee will meet Monday to consider the decision of the employees committee. The railroads are then expected to make their ultimatum.

It was said today that the Erdman arbitration act was not mentioned at the conference, but comment among railroad and union representatives tonight showed a general expectation that the men would appeal for arbitration before deciding to walk out.

Both sides to the controversy have expressed a belief that the present three men meditation under the Erdman act is dangerous, in that it places too much responsibility on the deciding vote when two members disagree. For this reason the course in congress of a bill amending the Erdman act by increasing the number of arbitrators is being watched with interest. It was under protest that the railroads in the recent dispute with their firemen, consented to arbitrate under the Erdman act. In the present wage controversy they have declined one proposition for arbitration under that law.

"The Erie men will insist upon a compliance with their demands for a wage increase, and unless the Erie meets their demands the men will strike."

ters. This lounging room is one of the most commodious of any hotel in the country, and has had a share in making the Piedmont hotel a success.

Floral Company Moves.

It was announced Tuesday that the Atlanta Floral company, which has been occupying quarter sin the Wiseheart property on Peachtree just north of Edgewood avenue, will move into the downstairs portion of the Alfriend building, 87 Peachtree, on September 1. This property was formerly occupied by the College Co-Op, Shelley Ivey, manager, which lately moved into 119 and 121 Peachtree, Candler building. The reason given for the moving of the Atlanta Floral company was large increase in rental.

West Peachtree Lease Announced.

It was announced Tuesday that Harvie Jordan has leased the home of Henry Grady at 82 Ormewood avenue, corner of West Peachtree and North avenue, and will take possession on July 15. The Collier residence is a handsome brick structure and one of the handsomest on West Peachtree.

Bearse Property for Sale.

Asa Bearse, administrator of the estate of Charles D. Bearse, will offer for sale at the courthouse door the first Tuesday in August a parcel on the north side of Bass street, just west of Courtland street, 42x85 feet. This property is subject to a $1,000 loan given to Northern A. Smithe June 20, 1905. Terms not stated.

Ormewood Lease Sale.

Oscar G. and Nathan Manasseh have sold to Mrs. Ogda. E. Green a house and lot at 89 Ormewood avenue for a consideration of $2,400. This property is improved by the house being built only a short while ago.

Helping Those Who Help You

Local dealers owe it to themselves to co-operate energetically with manufacturers who use space in local newspapers to advertise the goods the dealers handle.

Whenever a manufacturer tells the dealers in a certain community that he is going to advertise his product in the local newspapers, or whenever that advertising is placed by the local dealer himself, then that dealer should do everything in his power to aid in increasing the sales of the goods in question.

If the manufacturer's advertisement runs independently, the local dealer should make reference to the article in his own advertising.

There should be special window displays and special interior displays.

Clerks should be fully informed, handed copies of the advertisements and told what to do to stimulate the demand for the article involved.

Dealers who are interested in local advertising for national products are invited to write to the Bureau of Advertising, American Newspaper Publishers' Association, World Building, New York.

COTTON HIGHER ON GOOD DEMAND

Opening at Decline, the Market Improved on Scattering Demand and Closed at an Advance.

New York, July 8.—The cotton market continued quiet today, but prices were higher and closed steady at a net advance of 8 to 9 points.

The opening was steady at a decline of 2 points to an advance of 1 point, and after some little irregularity the market improved on a scattering demand, which seemed to come partly from foreign sources and partly from local shorts or bullish houses. Rather steadier Liverpool cables, larger English spot sales and reports that the continent was buying new crop months in Liverpool contributed to the advance, while demand became a little more active around midday, on reports of high temperatures in the southwest or apprehensions that another two or three days of dry weather would bring in drouth complaints. These features seemed to restrict offerings rather than to inspire any general buying movement, but the market was very steady in the late trading and closed within a point or two of the best.

Near months were relatively firm, being influenced, apparently, by further shipments from the south and continued rumors that international houses were shipping cotton out on order to strengthen a long position in Atlanta and Chicago contracts.

The weekly report of the weather bureau was considered about a standoff, although it indicated generally favorable conditions during the past week. It also mentioned the need of rain in several sections, while the days's detailed reports showed temperatures of 100 degrees or over at many stations in both Texas and Oklahoma.

The gossip concerning near months situation included rumors that one of the large spot interests, supposed to be short of August contracts in this market, might be taking cotton for delivery from New England mill points before the end of the summer.

New Orleans Cotton.

New Orleans, July 8.—Cotton was quiet but steady, today. Prices moved within a narrow range and while sold were aggressive, the weather was with the bear, as rain was in time did any real selling power develop. While fourth of clear and certain prices on the bullish features that developed. Chief among these were crop damage reports, which noted drouthy conditions still prevailing in a few important sections of the cotton region.

The opening was grade at 1 point advance to 7 points decline. Later the market eased and the market fell off a little on the forenoon weather reports. At the first the lowest in the early trading prices were 2 to 5 points under yesterday's close. This was the low of the day. The market did little until 11 o'clock, when the weekly weather reports were received, which stimulated trading and caused to a moderate degree and put the last 2 to 4 points over yesterday's last quotations. The market fluctuated in the afternoon closing at a net advance of 2 to 4 points on the trading of the day.

Dry Goods.

New York, July 8.—Cotton goods markets are quiet and steady. Yarns are firmer. Foreign men's war factors are upset in their speculation and are not operating to any extent. Buying of a tariff date at January 1 normal of fabrics. Buyers are more numerous in the markets.

John F. Black & Co.

New York, July 8.—The cotton market was very dull today. There seems to be little outside interest. Some people are buying on the principle of the saying that "cotton always goes a week." The market was steady today, now only months during a point or two. We do not look for a bull market if it was shown that nothing would result of the labors of the Washington, but just now extremely seems afraid of anything.

Liverpool is due to come about a point up on new crop positions.

Gibert & Clay.

New York, July 8.—The fourth high temperatures over Texas and the eastern portion of the restricted selling today and consequently the buying of Liverpool is very much shorter than about 6 points. General business conditions very small and there is little disposition to make any commitments until the crop is nearer maturity.

Hubbard Bros. & Co.

New York, July 8.—This a market quiet and steady somewhat stronger on account weather reports. Business is very small. Business is not expected to be active until some real bullish feature develops. Sentiment for cotton in Europe continues to be bullish. Spinning conditions are reported very good. Apparently is not true that the Balkan situation will be amicably settled.

Liverpool is due to show about 2 points higher on the near months and about 10 points higher on the distant deliveries.

Cotton Seed Oil.

New York, July 8.—A sudden spell of rain over the cotton belt has checked the movement of new crop cotton to some extent, and the receipts at the mills and local professionals are expected to show a falling off from last week. Offerings of cash cotton during the week were also reduced by the rains and about 11 points per decline with sales amounting to 10,400 barrels.

SATURDAY, JULY 19, SET FOR AUGUSTA TRIP

After Long Debate the Senate Changes Date and Declares It "Dies Non."

In an attempt to save a day for legislative work the Georgia state senate spent practically an entire morning session Tuesday quibbling over the question as to whether or not the senate should accept the invitation of the city of Augusta for Wednesday, July 16.

The invitation was accepted Monday morning, but upon motion of Senator Tarver, of the forty-third, the invitation was reconsidered Tuesday morning after a long fight, resulting in a vote of 22 to 19 in favor of reconsideration. Senator Tarver stated that he knew as well as anybody else that the purpose of the trip was to get the legislature to make an appropriation to the Augusta State Medical college and that it was not right to accept the per diem of the state while the body was off on a junketing trip to the various institutions of the state.

Date Changed to July 19.

Immediately upon the passage of the motion to reconsider Senator Du-Bose, of the thirtieth, moved that the senate accept the invitation of Augusta to visit the city July 19, which is Saturday, and in this way make the visit on a day on which no legislation is usually accomplished. Senator Harrel amended the motion so as to make Saturday "dies non," and the amendment was accepted by Senator DuBose. The motion as amended passed almost without opposition, although Senator McGregor, of the nineteenth, took a very decided stand against the visit and incidentally took a rap at President Andrew M. Soule, of the State College of Agriculture at Athens by remarking that "conditions have come to a pretty state when we have to go all the way to Canada to get a man who is able to conduct our own school of agriculture."

Payment of Teachers.

A bill looking to the payment of the school teachers promptly in the future was introduced by Senator Hixon, of the thirty-seventh, in the shape of a constitutional amendment, which would provide for the increasing of the bonded debt of the state. The present section of the constitution reads, "The bonded debt of this state shall never be increased, except to repel invasion, suppress insurrection, or to defend the state in time of war." The measure of Senator Hixon provides that the additional clause shall be added to this, "or for the purpose of enabling the state to pay promptly when due the salaries of teachers in the public schools."

Would Restore Clayton to Fifth.

Senator Hule, of the thirty-fifth district, introduced a congressional reapportionment measure which would take Clayton county out of the sixth district and place it into the fifth district.

A "pure paint law" was introduced by Senator Harrell, of the twelfth, which would require the labelling of all containers of paint, white lead, compounds or mixed paints showing the true per cent of each mineral constituent contained in them.

The penitentiary committee met Tuesday morning and deferred action on the probation bill until next Tuesday morning, when there will be a public hearing before the committee concerning the measure.

The medical practice bill will be taken up Friday morning at 9 o'clock before the committee on hygiene and sanitation.

Senate Bills.

Bills introduced in the senate Tuesday:

By Hule of the Thirty-fifth—To reapportion the congressional districts of Georgia so as to place Clayton county in the fifth district.

By Hule of the Thirty-fifth—To make it a misdemeanor to draw a check or draft if funds have not sufficient funds in bank to meet the amount at that time.

By Hule of the Thirty-fifth—To amend the code of 1910 relating to garnishments.

By Harrell of the Twelfth—To provide monthly meeting of road commissioners of Stewart county.

By Harrell of the Twelfth—To fix the salary of solicitor general at $3,000 in addition to fees in supreme court and court of appeals.

By Harrell of the Twelfth—To provide for a pure paint law.

By Hixon of the Thirty-seventh—To provide for examination of hotels, restaurants, etc.

By Hixon of the Thirty-seventh—To carry into effect the same food laws.

By Hixon of the Thirty-seventh—A bill providing for payment of teachers.

By Harrell of the Twelfth—A bill to authorize the appointment of notaries public from the state at large.

RECORDER ORDERS OWLS' CLUB PROBE

Mysterious Shooting Investigated by Court—Woman Released, Captain Thompson Bound Over.

A thorough probe of the Owls' club and of other locker clubs throughout the city is likely to follow the sensational trial in the recorder's court yesterday afternoon of Mrs. Lucy Ballew and A. C. Thompson, who figured in the mysterious shooting which occurred in the Owls' reception parlors last Friday night.

After Judge Broyles had advised the detectives who investigated the shooting to probe the club in which it happened, to ascertain if it were not being operated in violation of the liquor ordinance, he bound Thompson over under $200 bond for carrying concealed weapons.

Thompson is a deputy warden attached to the county convict department. He stated to the recorder that he was legally deputized by Sheriff C. Wheeler Mangum. The bond was given and he will be tried in an early term of the city court.

No Evidence Against Woman.

The case against Mrs. Ballew was dismissed, the recorder declaring that there was no evidence to show that the shooting was more than an accident. She admitted holding the gun which had fired the bullet, but declared that she could not account for its discharge.

Judge Broyles repeatedly tried to question Captain Thompson about his membership in the Owls. He asked if Thompson had an individual locker in the club, and if he kept therein his private store of liquors. Attorney for the wounded man met each question with a plea that it was irrelevant.

"Such questions have no connection with the trial of this shooting," the attorney would argue.

"We try everything in this court," Broyles would answer. "We want to get all offenders of every nature. It is our duty to investigate these locker clubs and to penalize them if they violate the law."

To detectives Vickery and Hamby and Wergzoer, who had investigated the shooting, the recorder said:

"I'd advise you to probe this club, and if you find anything that smacks of law violation, present it before the police committee of council. This liquor ordinance must be enforced."

Why He Had Pistol.

Regarding the pistol which Thompson had carried and with which he was wounded, Judge Broyles asked his connection with the county. Thompson stated his official capacity as deputy warden, or transfer guard.

"What business did you have with a revolver while you were drinking at the Owls' club"

Thompson intimated that he always carried the gun so long as he was an official of the county.

"You were not guarding convicts or prisoners the day you were shot. You were not transferring criminals. You were with a lady, and I can't see where you needed a pistol."

The recorder also gave a severe reprimand to Harry E. Latham, of the office of Solicitor Arnold, who was in the club at the time of the shooting. The rebuke was given because Latham made no effort to take action for the shooting, but, instead, apparently strove to conceal the incident from official eyes.

Sheriff Mangum's Position.

Sheriff C. Wheeler Mangum, who was in his residence in the Tower Tuesday afternoon, when told of the action of Recorder Broyles in binding Convict Guard Thompson over for carrying concealed weapons, took no exception at the turn of the case.

"I tell every bailiff when I deputize him," said the sheriff, "that that does not give him the right to carry a pistol. I tell them that if they want to carry pistols that they should go to the ordinary and get a license for carrying a weapon and then carry the pistol in their hands."

Practically all of the bailiffs in the county and in the state carry concealed weapons with them on and off duty and the matter was never held against one of them until the recorder action in Thompson's case.

EFFICIENCY STAMP ON MRS. LONGSTREET

Senate Committee Finds She Conducted the Gainesville Office Well.

Washington, July 8.—The senate committee considering the nomination of Mrs. H. W. J. Ham for postmaster at Gainesville, Ga., in place of Mrs. Helen D. Longstreet, has made a report that Mrs. Longstreet was "efficient, capable and satisfactory as postmaster." The report includes a letter from Postmaster General Burleson stating that in the naming of a successor Mrs. Longstreet's efficiency was not taken into question.

Mrs. Longstreet testified before the committee that she had no objection to the confirmation of Mrs. Ham, but merely wished to be vindicated of any charge of poor management of the postoffice. The committee last night recommended the confirmation of Mrs. Ham, but the delayed action on the part of Senator Townsend until the report of the committee's investigation had been printed.

CARRY BOGUS MONEY TO FOOL FOOTPADS

Passaic, N. J., July 8.—Learning from experience when they were held up and robbed of $150 in genuine money a year ago, Benjamin Goldberg and Julius Yerban, partners in a produce business here, ever since have carried a goodly quantity of bogus money around, ready to fool the next highwayman they encountered. Their chance came yesterday, when two masked men held up their wagon at the point of revolvers and forced the men to empty their pockets of $10,000 in bogus bills. The robbers fled, with the grocer men gleeful because their money—$115—was safe beneath the wagon seat.

MORTUARY.

Rev. J. P. Bazemore, Sylvania.

Sylvania, Ga., July 8.—(Special.)—Rev. J. P. Bazemore died at the home of his son, A. M. Bazemore, near Buck Creek in this county, Sunday, after a brief illness. He was a member of the Florida conference of the Methodist church at the time of his death, and up to about three weeks ago had been in active work at Fenholowy in that state. He was about 67 years of age, and has a large number of relatives in this county. The remains were interred at Buck Creek cemetery with Masonic honors, the ceremonies being conducted by Sylvania Lodge of which he was a member.

George W. Smith, Experiment.

Griffin, Ga., July 8.—(Special.)—The funeral of George W. Smith, of Experiment, occurred yesterday, conducted by Rev. J. A. Drewry. The deceased had been ill of typhoid fever for some weeks. He was buried at New Salem Baptist church, near Vaughn, Ga. He was 58 years of age, and is survived by his wife and eight children.

Mrs. G. E. Bothwell.

Mrs. G. E. Bothwell, age 28, died at a private sanitarium at 11 o'clock Tuesday night. She is survived by her husband, Dr. G. E. Bothwell, two sons, her father and mother, three brothers and two sisters. The body was removed to Burkert & Simmons chapel and funeral arrangements will be announced later.

Mrs. Elizabeth McGuirk.

Mrs. Elizabeth McGuirk, age 36, died Tuesday afternoon in Jacksonville, Fla., and the body will arrive in Atlanta at 7:30 o'clock tonight. She is survived by four brothers and three sisters and one son, Hugh H. Dorsey. The body will be removed to Bloomfield's chapel and the funeral will go from Sacred Heart church at 10:30 o'clock Thursday morning. Interment will be in Oakland.

John H. Fitten.

John H. Fitten, age 27, died at the residence in East Lake Tuesday morning. He is survived by his mother, two sisters, Mrs. Paul Goldsmith and Mrs. W. H. Glenn, and one brother, J. T. Fitten. The funeral will be from All Saints church at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon and interment will be in Oakland.

THEATERS

Keith Vaudeville.
(At the Forsyth.)

Measuring the hit that the show at the Forsyth has registered this week by the applause that has been accorded each act, the bill is certainly one of the most satisfactory of the season. There are acts appearing here for the first time that have won the admiration of each gathering of theatergoers, and there are others who have returned to find a splendid welcome.

Miss Eva Taylor and her company offer about the best straight comedy sketch of the summer season. They are all decidedly capable, and make splendid stage appearances.

The headline feature for next week will be The headline feature for the next week will be the return of talented Valere Bergere. The distinguished star will present her newest success, "Judgment," a playlet of intense interest and nearly sensational.

"Along Broadway."
(At the Bijou.)

"Along Broadway," the musical comedy presented at the Bijou this week, is unquestionably the superior offering of its kind that has been presented at the popular family theater this season. Its magnificent costumes, beautiful scenic effects and a company of vaudeville and musical comedy stars complete an entertainment designed for the hot weather, then this organization should play to packed houses throughout the week.

"Along Broadway" has among its members some of the best known stars in the theatrical profession, and one thing particularly noticeable is that every one in the entire company does some especial and entertaining specialty, and as a whole the company presents an appearance well in keeping with those presented at the higher-priced theaters.

SCHOOL LEADERS ARE MEETING IN ATHENS

Athens, Ga., July 8.—(Special.)—The county superintendents from all over the state are here for a two days' conference at the invitation of the head of the summer school.

Dr. Jerre Pound led the conference of the opening session. Superintendent Lawton Evans, of August, is here for two addresses; State Supervisor M. L. Duggan and Miss Celestia Parrish, another of the state supervisors, are here to talk of the ideal rural school and the practical arts in the country school.

Phil Campbell, head of the Boys' Corn club work in the state, addressed the superintendents this morning. His address brought out a very startling statement from the head of the rural system of Irwin county, who declares that he has seventy-five boys in his county, members of this year's Boys' Corn club, who will, without doubt, make more than 100 bushels an acre on every patch they are cultivating—approximating thus by the scores the state record of only two years ago, when the winner made only 102.6 bushels on an acre.

Dr. Wootten, superintendent of the summer school, and W. K. Tate, supervisor of the rural schools of South Carolina, spoke.

THEY WANT M'KINLEY INSTEAD OF JEFFERSON

Canton, Ohio, July 8.—Resolutions adopted by the McKinley club of this city, named in honor of William McKinley, whose home was in Canton, have been forwarded to President wilson and Postmaster General Burleson protesting against the substitution of the picture of Jefferson for that of McKinley on postal cards. Copies of the resolutions have been sent to Senators Burton and Pomerene and to Representative Whitacre, of this congressional district.
